Both Municipalities Considering Low-Cost Types of Housing to Alleviate Shortage

With housing expensive everywhere, and small apartments almost non-existent at any price, a pair of alternative kinds of housing are being talked about more and more for Princeton—the least-cost, modular house, and the flat.

One seems particularly appropriate for the open spaces in the Township, the other for the development of existing houses in the Borough.

A "modular house" is a euphemism for mobile home, but don't wince! A flat is another way of describing a small apartment carved out of a larger house or a big, old-fashioned garage. You can alter your house to create a flat if you live in the Township, and the Borough is expected to consider a similar ordinance this fall.

A mobile home doesn't have to look like a trailer park on Route One. Princeton architect Philetus H. Holt has designed one (see Page 2) that looks like a sleek vacation home (in fact, when he originally designed it, he called it a Vac-Shac), and he says that, if 100 or 200 were built at once, they would cost only about $25,000, and that could even include the furniture.

"The emotional feeling people have against mobile home parks is due to their sheer ugliness," Mr. Holt believes. "Most of these places have had no site planning at all. But there is no reason it cannot be done acceptably and aesthetically. Mobile homes don't have to be in Mediterranean Clunker style."

Mr. Holt thinks his Vac-Shac could be built six to an acre or even tighter, with a good site plan, all the windows looking out onto a private courtyard which would be even bigger than your "mobile" house, with space in front to park your car. ("Can't afford to roof a car, for only $25,000.") "I've seen one like this in Denmark, over-looking wide-open fields—and cows! In Sweden, there is a similar one in which the walls of the other units create private courtyards."

"This one is elegant enough," Mr. Holt says, looking with pleasure at a sketch of his Vac-Shac, "so that I would like to live in it myself".

The unit is conventional mobile home size: a pair of 12-foot-wide units, 48 feet long, giving a house 24 by 48 feet, or 1,152 square feet. Where the units are joined down the middle, the seam is covered with aluminum siding—could be a dark brown aluminum, to blend with trees, of course; doesn't have to be shiny aluminum foil.

Inside is a 17 x 24 living room with two window-less walls and a window wall giving onto a deck. Dining room and kitchen also share this glass wall. The deck folds up against the side of the unit to protect Solutions Debated to Excess Deer Population in Township — Current Figure of 600 Expected to Increase by 50% in 2 Years

There is no such thing as a non-producing female deer, and the 600 deer now fat and happy in Princeton, will probably increase to 900 in two years.

It also began to seem, last Wednesday in Township Hall, as though there is no such thing as a hunter who is happy with proposals for deer control outlined in detail by a trio of state fish-and-game experts. These men were called in by Township Committee because it's beginning to look as though the deer may outnumber the taxpayers before long.

Tactfully but firmly, George Howard, chairman of the state's Bureau of Wildlife Management, reminded Committee when the Township's no-firearms ordinance was passed in 1972, that he had warned, "You'll be back to us in five years."

Plan Defined. The state's plan calls for setting aside two zones — in the northern and southwestern sections of the Township — totalling 5,000 acres. In these zones, hunters armed with a permit from Township police and wearing an identifying armband would be allowed to hunt buck for a six-day season, and both sexes for a single day. The state recommended that permits be given to 250 hunters during this period.

Owners in the designated areas could post their property so that nobody could hunt there at all. Also, under state law, hunting isn't allowed within 450 feet of occupied dwellings.

"We're one hundred percent against this plan," declared Joe Trani of The Antlers Club. "We are still very bitter from '72."

In that year, the Antlers took the Township to court over the firearms ban ordinance, and lost. They have permission from private owners to hunt certain Township lands.

"All our lands will stay closed," he continued. "Let the deer eat you up — we suffered, let's see some of you suffer. We control all the land where there are deer, and we'll post."

Trouble Predicted. "I hope you don't represent all sportsmen," said Mr. Howard plaintively. "Without the co-operation of sportsmen, the Township will be in trouble."

This Is PRINCETON

Mark Douglas, of the Mercer County Federation of Sportsmen, echoed Mr. Trani, and warned Committee that Federation members would refuse to hunt the Township under the state's plan. The Township is on the Federation's agenda for a meeting next Monday, he said.

A Hopewell resident, John Maurer, said the Township's firearms ban has been a disservice to neighboring townships. He cited the 25 deer on his own lawn, car accidents on Carter Road, heavy crop damage.

"This is punitive damage against sportsmen, making us register like common criminals or some European politician," he said angrily. "It's those bleeding-hearts, the poor-little-deer people who should wear armbands."

No self-respecting sportsman will register with your police."

"Curiously, no 'poor-little-deer people' were present, although Administrator Joseph R. Nini said a petition against hunting had been presented.

Cold No Deterrent. Firing a barrage of statistics, the game control people said that deer reproduced at a rate of 1.7 fawns per female, and that fawns bred at six months of age. Princeton Township is a high-quality range, he said, and last winter's cold snap hadn't bothered the deer at all.

Last year, 81 deer were killed in the Township by the great deer predator — the motorist behind the wheel. Next year an additional 15 will die in this way, state officials estimated.

Eventually, they continued, disease and starvation will level the deer population, but for a range like Princeton's, that day is far away.

The state's plan cannot be implemented this year, Mr. Howard explained, because hunting rules for a year are set in July.

A query by Committee member Margaret Broadwater about using police marksmen to shoot deer was dismissed by Mr. Howard, who said it would take professionals six to eight months, hunting at night with lights, to accomplish what hunters could accomplish in the six-day, plus either-sex, season.

In response to a question, Mr. Howard said that the average 750-pound, 1½-year-old buck yields about 60 to 70 pounds of meat.

Bi-Partisan Support Helps Pass $1,500 Raise For Township Committee and $500 for Mayor

"I feel damned awkward," confessed Township Committee member Hugo Hoogenboom, faced with the grim reality of voting himself a raise. He's a Republican. David Blair, a Democrat elected at the same time, said he felt the same way.

But the increases, with the bi-partisan support of a Republican and a Democrat who are going off Committee in January, passed by a 4-1 vote. Republican Mayor Josie Hall voted "no."

The raise gives the mayor $3,500 a year instead of $3,000, and Committee members $2,500 instead of $1,000. Plus expenses, for all.

Elizabeth Hutter, who opposed the idea at first, said she came around because she felt that a raise would make it possible for more people to serve on Committee, "youths with fresh ideas and growing families," she said, "women who might run for office instead of taking a part-time job."

"Also, I'd like to dispel the image the Township has of being an exclusive community. We, like the Borough, have a rich variety of backgrounds and incomes."

Time the Big Factor. Mayor Hall said time was more a factor than money in persuading people to run. She repeated her belief that a raise is wrong at this time, when the state has imposed "caps" on municipal budgets.

"With the $6,500 this raise represents, we could pay half the salary of a social service worker," she said, "and I feel badly when we can't raise employees' salaries more than we can."

From the audience, former Committee member William Sutphin — who originally proposed the raises as a Committeeman — referred to Committee as members of the Board of Directors of a municipal corporation with assets of over $10 million, a payroll of 100 and a budget of $3 million.

In 1976, he said, Committee Continued on Next Page

Wine Talk by Archie Browne

THE FINE CHATEAUNEUF-du-PAPE WINES

Chateauf-neuf-du-Pape (Shot-toe-noof dew Pop) is without a question of doubt the best known red wine of the Cotes-Du-Rhone (Coat dew Rhone). Chateauf-neuf-du-Pape is a hearty wine, produced from a mixture of as many as thirteen (13) different grape varieties such as Syrah, Clairette, Picpoul, Cinsault, etc. The resulting wine is deep crimson in color, full-bodied and high in its alcoholic content (13-14% by volume). Chateauf-neuf-du-Pape is at its best between the ages of five and ten years. A small amount of white Chateauf-neuf-du-Pape is produced which is pleasant tasting, with a great deal of body and flavor, but by no means as fine as the red Chateau-du-Pape.

the glass wall and give stability during transportation. Kitchen and bath (shower, no tub) are each 6 x 8. The dining room, which is partly a corridor, is 8½ by 18, and the two bedrooms are each 11½ x 13½.

"It's designed like a boat," Mr. Holt explains, "with storage built in under the windows, under the beds—every cubic inch."

Pier Foundations Used. It rests on pier foundations adjusted to fit any slope. The only connections to the ground are the utility installation.

"Young and old just can't afford houses at $60,000 to $120,000," Mr. Holt points out. "A unit like this offers home-ownership possibilities to an unmarried man or woman just out of college. The way it's constructed on piers means it could be used on a rocky site, although utilities would have to go through the rock."

The Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council says of Mr. Holt's Vac-Shac:

"With proper attention by planning boards to the choice of appropriate locations and by the developer to environmental design for the proposed site, mobile homes should be no different in their impact on a community than a well-designed or project of townshouses, or single-family homes."

YES, MOBILE HOMES CAN BE ATTRACTIVE: This one, with glass wall in living-room, dining-room and kitchen, giving onto a deck, is so designed that its solid walls can provide the walls for private courtyards for adjoining, identical units. Is this an answer to moderate-cost housing for Princeton? Phil Holt is the architect.

The Restrictions. Homes where flats might be built already have proper locations, presumably. The Borough already allows, throughout the entire municipality, the rental of not more than two rooms to four people. To make a flat ordinance, Council would only have to permit cooking, and perhaps expand the number of allowed rooms as it wished.

In the Township, a house may contain only one flat of not less than two rooms, with kitchen, complete bathroom for use of the flat's occupants only, a net floor area of at least 400 feet, and access to the outdoors. The owner must live in the house where the flat is.

About 30 of these flats have been carved out of existing houses since the ordinance was passed in 1973.

Realtor Audrey Short says she could sell more houses if flats were allowed, and she says buyers from out of town always ask about accommodations like these.

"People want carriage houses," she has found, and she commented that many a big, western - section house has a sizeable garage that could be converted to just that, or highly desirable servants' quarters no longer used.

Would home - owners in the western sections R-1 and R-2 zones like such an idea?

"Yes," is her prompt reply, "you have a house with six or more bedrooms, a proportionate number of bathrooms. You can shut off these extra rooms, but you still have to mow the lawn and prune the shrubs. And if you could convert some of those rooms and get $600 a month for an apartment..... Besides, at that rent, you'd be getting a tenant with some level of education. I think people would welcome the idea."

"Plight of Older People." Last week, Borough Council granted permission to Dr. W. G. Rainey to rent an apartment in his 34 Bayard Lane home. His case focussed the Council's vision on the plight of older people who own large homes, and the complementary plight of people who need apartments.

"There is an urgent need for luxury apartments," said Council member Martin P. Lombardo, Council's housing chairman and its Planning Board representative. "And a flat ordinance would also enable the elderly to remain in Princeton. I think it's a must."

Although roomers are allowed in the Borough, flats have not been, in the R-1 and R-2 zones where the big houses are, and Mrs. Short suspects as many as 20 illegal apartments, throughout the municipality. Assessor Stuart Robeson points out that many of these are probably "Prior non-conforming" uses, meaning they were there before zoning laws forbade them.

Mrs. Short also says a newer house, say, in the Dodds Lane section of the Township, may go for $120,000 or $130,000, whereas a big old house in the Borough's western section may sell for only about $70,000 more, handicapped by all the bedrooms and servants' quarters.

held 63 public meetings and spent about 250 evening hours. Adding home-work and answering the telephone when constituents call about a problem brought the total to 675 hours a year, he estimated.

"You're entitled to enough salary to pay your taxes," commented Henry J. Frank, from the audience. "It only seems like a big change because you waited so long."

Bike Path Unsettled. The Stockton-Edgerstoune bike path is still winding through Township agendas. Deer hunting took so long last week that the bike path couldn't be discussed beyond a brief announcement from assistant engineer Bhagwan Das that the state will not allow any change from a seven-foot width for the Edgerstoune-to-Rosedale segment. Trees that might have to come down caused some concern on Committee, and members agreed to act, finally and positively, at this Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting.

Final action may also be taken on the amended service contract with the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. Committee heard Tristram B. Johnson warn that all municipalities should have agreements approved by September 19-20 for best advantage in the bond market. Committee was disturbed that agreement drafts arrived so close to these deadlines.

"We were expected to act as rubber stamps, and this stirs resentment in my heart," Mr. Hoogenboom commented.

From the audience, William Cherry raised a new question when he suggested that town control over environmental matters during sewer construction, should be built into the contract. Or, if not municipal control, then control by sewer authority, Federal or state officials. Mrs. Hutter remarked that the affected community could never be satisfied, and Mr. Hoogenboom said that to have one town block a regional project is inconsistent.

Committee will continue its discussion this Wednesday.

Also on this week's agenda is the public hearing on forbidding parking on part of Province Line Road, to match Lawrence Township's prohibition affecting the other side of the road.

Mayor Hall is expected to report on the progress toward a joint Borough-Township fire commission, and a meeting regarding the fate of the Dinky.

Borough Engineer Points Way to Major Operating Cost Reduction Of Sewage Disposal If Plans Are Made to Utilize Existing Plant

"We've been paying $200,000 a year; after November 1, Systems Technology, which we'll be paying over $1 million," "We" means taxpayers in is in the business of taking Borough and Township. over abandoned sewage "Payiog" is for sewage treatment plants -- it has treatment after the new Stony about half a dozen already -- Brook Regional Sewerage and pre-treating industrial Plant on River Road goes into waste for delivery into a operation. The warning voice municipalsystem. is "George Olexa, sanitary engineer and secretary for the Sewer Operating Committee,

Mr. Olexa is excited these days about a proposal from Systems Technology Corporation of Dayton, Ohio, to lease the old sewer plant that will be retired November 1, and use it for the pre-treatment of industrial waste which would then be carried over the fence -- figuratively speaking -- and delivered to the new Stony Brook plant.

It would be a double way to reduce costs, Mr. Olexa believes. First, the ten-year lease that Systems Technology would like to have would ease these new sewer costs considerably for both Princetons. Second, the Stony Brook Authority itself would collect money from Systems Technology for handling their pre-treated product.

Explanatory Session. Representatives of Systems Technology will explain their process and proposal next Wednesday, September 21, at 7 p.m. to a joint meeting of Borough Council and Township Committee, to be held in Township Hall.

The old abandoned sewer plant can't simply lie there, Mr. Olexa says. If nobody wants it, the SOC will bulldoze it into the ground. Its empty, 20-foot-deep tanks could fill with water and become an extreme hazard. Insurance would be prohibitively expensive.

The old plant is in the Township. Mr. Olexa, speaking as SOC secretary (he's also the Borough engineer), doesn't see a zoning problem for the Township. The plant is already a non-conforming use in a residential district, and it would continue in precisely that capacity if someone like Systems Technology were to take over.

"I hope the Township agrees," he adds.

The company would like to have two such plants in New Jersey. The Princeton one, representatives say, would serve the central part of the state.

Material would be brought to the River Road plant in tank trucks, probably four or five a day. The trucks would be licensed by the Department of Environmental Protection. Batches to be processed would amount to about 25,000 gallons a day; the old plant now handles 2.5 million gallons a day. In the old plant, heavy metals and solids would be removed and oil recovered, and the resulting material delivered to Stony Brook.

The company would have to invest money to convert present equipment in the old plant or add new equipment, and that is why it would like a ten-year lease. There is no clue as to the dollar amount Princeton would receive, Mr. Olexa says.

Cost Analysis. Underscoring the sharply-increased financial load for the two Princetons, Mr. Olexa points to the present Borough sewer charge of $3 per 1,000 cubic feet of water. It will go to $12 after November 1.

The Township's present formula, involving a base charge and a surcharge, is no longer satisfactory under Federal Environmental Protection Agency rules, and the municipality will have to alter its formula. Estimates by Mr. Olexa and Township officials show about $12.80 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The heavy immediate charges will accrue because at first, only the two Princetons (and Princeton University, the third member of the SOC) will be using the big, new plant.

Asked whether he thought Princeton's two governing bodies could act fast enough on the Systems Technology proposal to beat the SOC bulldozer, Mr. Olexa said "No comment."

AMENDMENT PLANNED

To Firearms Law. If a squirrel has nested in your attic or chomped the insulation off your wiring, you can shoot him with impunity, or even with a gun, under an amendment to the firearms ordinance which Borough Council will introduce this Thursday.

Council will meet at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. The meeting, two days later than the normal second-Tuesday session, was postponed because of Rosh Hashanah.

Council has prepared the ordinance chiefly to help the Board of Education get rid of pigeons around Princeton High School. A permit will be required of anyone using firearms to protect person or property from such "animal pests."

State Green Acres money in the amount of $65,710 will be sought by the Borough to pay for developing the new Quarry Park. Council is expected to request money for access and

Following a line of Federal red tape, Council will introduce an ordinance levying a surcharge for high-strength sewage. Although Federal regulations now require the surcharge, the Borough has no instruments to measure such a flow, so the ordinance at the moment is only a gesture.

Traffic Survey Planned. Next Thursday and Friday, staff from E.I. Barton and Associates of Cleveland, the Borough's traffic consultants, will supervise a once-over of residential streets tributary to the Central Business District. Volunteers from the Jaycees will do the work.

Final parking studies are due October 1, according to Mayor Robert W. Cawley. Until they are in, work cannot proceed on planning a parking garage and the proposed housing for the elderly on Palmer Square.

At last Thursday's work session, Council heard Robert Conroy, the Township's police radio consultant. He hopes the Borough will agree to acting as host for a new and taller Township radio tower which would be affixed to the present Borough tower. Borough Hall is 80 feet higher than Township Hall, and Township police need the extra height for proper reception.

All Mr. Conroy's recommended sites are in the Borough. His second choice is the top of the John Street water tower, but maintenance problems make that location less desirable than the present Borough tower at Borough Hall.

Conversion to UHF Planned. In favor of the tower is the fact that if the Borough converts to Ultra-high Frequency — as the Township is apparently planning to do — it could piggyback the Township installation. On the other hand, the aesthetics of a high tower bother some Council members. Mayor Cawley told his press conference Tuesday that he agrees with those who say the tower, thin and high in the sky, would hardly be visible.

The Borough's police committee will meet and discuss the technical and economic aspects of the matter. Members are Police Commissioner Richard Woodbridge, Administrator

Robert F. Mooney, and Council members Martin P. Lombardo and Gus Escher.

In other action Thursday, Council approved use of overhang balconies for the proposed Benson Building apartments. Mr. Benson now needs only site plan approval before starting construction.

SEMIFINALISTS NAMED In Merit Scholarships. Approximately 15,000 students have been named semifinalists in the 1978 National Merit Scholarship Program. They will have an opportunity to continue in the competition for about 3,900 Merit Scholarships to be awarded in the spring of 1978.

Ten students from Princeton Day School have been named semi-finalists. They are Margaret B. Bailey, Roger M. Fried, Donald H. Gips, Jay N. Itzkowitz, Cecelia G. Manning, Jordan A. Sand, Jeffrey L. Swisher, John D. Wallace, and Frederick Woodbridge, all of Princeton, and Douglas O. Fitton of Mercerville.

From Princeton High School semi-finalists include Lisa Bienkowski, Lisa C. Curtiss, Stephen J. Doig, John T. Fischer, Amy J. Goldstein, John E. Keane, Donald A. Link, Karen Liu, Steven G. Magee, Jonathan R. Miller, Niels Nielsen, Eleanor E. O'Neill, Lesley C. Peebles, Mary L. Rosenbluth, Jonathan L. Rosenthal, Jeremy C. Stein and Eric G. Tazelaar.

At West Windsor-Plainsboro High School they are Yen S. Chen, Donald F. Holloway and Albert J. Musciano.

CAMERA, MONEY TAKEN From Spruce St. Home. A 35 mm camera valued at $200, $9 from a wallet and three cans of beer were stolen last week from a Spruce Street home.

Police said that the intruder entered through an unlocked rear door. Ptl. William Nathan investigated.

A Princeton resident lost $60 last week when she left her wallet unattended while in the public library, and a Somerset woman had her brown canvas pocketbook taken between 4 and 6 Sunday afternoon from her car which she had parked in the Marquand Park lot. She lost a bank savings book, her eyeglasses but no cash.

Harry Barber Jr., an employee at the Hun School, told police this week, that a wire wheel cover had been stolen from his 1977 car while it was parked overnight in front of Russell Hall. He valued it at $180.

A $489 moped stolen from the Township August 16 was found last week on the Westminster Choir College campus. Police report they are in the process of returning it to the owner.

SCHOOL WALL SPRAYED By Vandals. Question of the week: What does "Yip Leagalize It" mean?

Those words were found spray painted in red early last week on the wall of Riverside School facing Riverside Drive West. William Karch, superintendent of grounds and buildings for the Princeton school system, was notified of the vandalism.

FIRE 'SUSPICIOUS' In Shopping Center. A fire in a former rest room at the Princeton Shopping Center last week has been called suspicious by police.

Ptl. David Cromwell while on patrol there Sunday morning noticed an orange glow in a window over the door of the rest room, now used for storage. He opened the door and found the room engulfed in smoke. Rubbish inside was ablaze.

Ptl. Cromwell requested a general alarm and the flames were extinguished by the

GOOD NEWS, BAD NEWS
For University Student. There was bad news, good news and bad news this week for Robert Brill, 21, of Roslyn Heights, a student at Princeton University.

First, he reported his car stolen at 2:06 Tuesday morning from a Spelman Hall lot. Then the good news: it was found at 2:29 by Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. Randy Sutton in the Princeton Inn College lot, a short distance away.

Then some more bad news. While checking the car with Mr. Brill for evidence, police found less than 25 grams of marijuana in the trunk. He was charged with possession and told to appear in Borough court October 19.

BOROUGH MAN CHARGED

With Assault. A 28-year old Borough resident, Michael Yates of 78 Clay Street, has been charged by police with the assault of a young woman.

The victim told police that she had been assaulted early last week around midnight at the corner of Witherspoon Street and Shirley Court. She required three sutures in her upper lip as a result of the assault, police said.

Mr. Yates was arrested after an investigation by Ptl. Randy Sutton and Ptl. John Holcombe. He has been ordered to appear in court October 5.

BURGLAR ESCAPES

With $20. A burglar seen exiting from a kitchen window of a home on Spruce Street shortly after 1 Sunday morning managed to elude a police search.

The suspect escaped with a wallet containing $20 and credit cards. Ptl. Gerald Patterson, Ptl. John Holcombe and Ptl. Randy Sutton responded to a call from a resident of the street, who saw the intruder leave.

A home on Library Place was entered last week while the owners were away and police have not yet been able to determine if anything was taken.

A small pane of glass in a rear door had been broken to gain entry. Police said that everything inside the home appeared to be in order.

Nassau Street near Moore was stopped at 12:48 Friday morning by off-duty Lt. John J. Bellow.

Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. Randy Sutton responded to Lt. Bellow's call for assistance and arrested Jeffrey Hover, 18, of Kendall Park. Mr. Hover was charged with drunken driving, exhibiting another person's driver's license and operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Later released in $250 bail, he is scheduled to appear in court on Monday.

A Philadelphia resident, James Hurley, 25, has been charged with possession of marijuana.

His car, parked in front of Viking Furniture at 12:10 Saturday morning, was checked out by Ptl. Sutton and Ptl. John Holcombe. The officers observed a pipe and a cellophane bag in the car's ash tray that allegedly contained marijuana. Mr. Hurley is also scheduled to appear in Borough court Monday.

Plans Made to Honor Patrolman Ellis

David Cromwell, an officer on the Township police force, has proposed that a Township street be named in memory of Patrolman Billie Ellis, who drowned 22 years ago in a futile attempt to rescue two boys trapped in the flood-swollen Millstone.

The tragedy occurred August 19, 1955, in the wake of Hurricane Diane, which did some $100 million in property damage in this area. Patrolman Ellis, off-duty in his Harrison Street home, heard the sirens as rescue squad members headed for the Kingston end of Lake Carnegie and the dam.

On his arrival at the scene, Patrolman Ellis, with Dewitt Boice, climbed into a rowboat and headed for the youths. But the rowboat overturned and Patrolman Ellis was swept away in the strong current. Mr. Boice survived. The boys who lost their lives were Patrick Maloney and Kenneth Werkman.

Township Committee has forwarded Patrolman Cromwell's suggestion to the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

24 APARTMENTS?

Sheehan Requests. A request to add two more floors and build 24 duplex apartments on top of the uncompleted Sheehan building at Nassau and Markham will be heard by the Borough Zoning Board at its next meeting.

The 146 Dundas Corporation, owner of the building, needs bulk variances and parking waiver before it can build the apartments. The Zoning Board will meet Friday, September 23, rescheduling its regular fourth-Thursdays meeting because of Yom Kippur.

The board will also hear the request of Gallery 100 to serve tea in its upstairs rooms. Also, William Holton will ask permission to extend the rear of 31-35 Humbert to enlarge a bathroom and porches.

The new owner of 254-8 Nassau will ask the board to reverse the opinion of zoning officer George Olexa that he is not entitled to appear before the board. The previous owner wanted to build five apartments in the building and was turned down by the Zoning Board. The new owner has come in with a similar plan, but fewer apartments.

COURSES LISTED

By Adult School. Will you be living in a solar home by 1980? Are the Chinese really inscrutable? Is science doomed?

The answers to these, and at least 57 other questions will be explored when the Princeton Adult School begins its 39th year on September 27. The 60 course curriculum offers such varied fare as Personal Histories: A Writing Course for Women, Paleontology: Prehistoric Life on Earth, Mexican Cooking, The World of Children's Books, and Wine Tasting: The Gentle Art.

The Solar Home, taught by architect Doug Kelbaugh, will cover a gamut of energy conservation options as well as the feasibility of converting a home to solar energy. China and Japan: The Modern Transformation, a series of lectures by Five distinguished authorities in the field of Asian studies, will shed new light on the divergent development of two oriental Superpowers. Philosophy Today: Science, Ethics, and Truth, plunges into some of the crucial issues confronting contemporary philosophers, while Faith and The Human Condition examines some current aspects of the world's enduring religions.

Among the less-familiar subjects, History and The Film provides a series of eyewitness cinematic events, plus a chance to discuss their role in shaping history. Warren I. Sussman, Chairman of the Rutgers History Department is the instructor. Beginnings and endings are dealt with in Paleontology: Prehistoric Life On Earth, taught by Professor Erling Dorf, and Death as a Fact of Life, a five week series

Two University Geology Students Fall to Death While on Field Research in Canadian Rockies

Two Princeton University geology students were killed last month in British Columbia while doing field research, the university said Monday.

Daniel Kraus, a graduate student, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kraus of San Jose, Calif., and Howard T. Vaum, Jr., a senior, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vaum, Trumbull, Conn., were killed on August 8 when they both fell some 160 feet down a steep and rocky slope of approximately 50 degrees angle.

The students were engaged in research on the metamorphic and plutonic history of the Coast Ranges of British Columbia. They were students of Lincoln S. Hollister, professor of geological and geophysical sciences at Princeton University.

The pair was put into the mountains by helicopter on July 27 and, based on notes taken by Mr. Kraus, had been in the region where the accident occurred for some time prior to the tragedy. They had not been making daily radio contact, which was not considered in the least unusual. The slope down which they fell was not unusually "scary." They were not in a position where they should not have been and no carelessness was indicated, the announcement said.

It has been hypothesized that they were on a downhill-facing smooth slab of rock covered with moss. Since it had rained the evening before and again on the morning of August 8, it may be presumed that the moss was damp.

The lower portion of moss had been freshly removed, leading to the theory that one of the students was standing on the moss which gave way and that in a reflex action one grabbed the other and both fell simultaneously. This theory is supported by the fact that both men fell down the same trajectory. They died of multiple breaks of the neck and back, were probably already unconscious at the time they reached the bottom of the slope, and it is thought that clinical death probably followed by a few seconds.

The bodies were found by a helicopter which on August 31 made a detour from another assignment to see if they were in need of any supplies. The pilot spotted the two bodies and reported the accident to authorities in the area.

Prof. Hollister was en route at that time to visit the students, on September 1, in company with Dr. Glenn Woodsworth of the Geological Survey of Canada. The investigation of the site of the accident and the nearby camp was conducted by Prof. Hollister, Dr. Woodsworth and an officer of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

SCHOLA Is Formed to Aid Students of All Ages

"As a teacher, I found many occasions when it seemed appropriate to use a tutor," recalls Ruth Randall, "but when parents would ask me for a recommendation, I never knew whom to suggest. SCHOLA will be a resource. No one will ever have to wonder about the quality of the tutoring!"

SCHOLA, modeled after the Princeton Language Group, consists of Mrs. Randall, a former teacher and resource person in language arts and social studies for the Princeton Schools, and Cynthia Y. Levinson, with a teaching background ranging from nursery school to adult education.

"We want SCHOLA to be THE place for truly professional individual instruction — really first rate," Mrs. Randall emphasizes. "We have interviewed our staff thoroughly, will be responsible for them, and will do regular evaluations of them."

So far, the staff consists of Mrs. Rosalyn Goldberg, a former math teacher in Princeton and William Spear, science teacher for the Boychoir and public schools in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Several other specialists are on call, ready if a need arises.

The need can be within any student at any age, right up through the adult years.

Let's suppose you're a secretary. Your supervisor tells you that if your organizational skills were more obvious or your punctuation more precise, you could rise to a higher level on the ladder.

Or, you're an engineer. "Report writing is the

ONE-TO-ONE LEARNING: New in high school and shaky on study skills? New on the job and shaky on business math? Ruth Randall (left) and Cynthia Levinson have formed SCHOLA, a private instruction service for students of any age, in almost any subject. At SCHOLA, they say, it's just you and the teacher.

nemesis of many an engineer," Mrs. Randall remarks. "Perhaps you must write a proposal to obtain funding. I have had that kind of writing experience and so have others I can call on."

If you've been in business for a long time, perhaps your computation skills need to be brought in line with today's world. Or, if you're a widow, maybe you are baffled by insurance, banking and budgeting.

Thomas A. Edison College grants degrees on the basis of exams, and maybe you need some tutoring before you take them.

Grasping the Outline. For the young ones, there will be the eighth-grader who has never grasped the concept of the outline; the 10th-grader who says, "Listen, I know this subject, but I don't know how to show the teacher what I know, in an essay question. That's what he says we're getting on the exam."

"Sometimes kids get hooked on a topic — dinosaurs, bridges," Mrs. Levinson observes. "We can either provide the information or help teachers work with this child's intense interest."

"SCHOLA is not a substitute for the schools," and Mrs. Randall wants to make that clear. "We feel strongly that it's important for us to work closely with the schools — public and private. In fact, people in both public and private schools have already offered us co-operation."

SCHOLA will ask that a student take a minimum of four, one-hour sessions. Scheduling is flexible, and can be arranged. There will be a free initial interview with either Mrs. Randall or Mrs. Levinson to find out what teachers will be needed, how many sessions required.

"We want the parents to

Principal Named

Norma Gumbiner has been chosen principal of Riverside School, Superintendent Paul Houston announced on Tuesday. She will assume her new duties almost immediately.

Mrs. Gumbiner has been serving as head of the schools' Thorough and Efficient program, and Dr. Houston said that the board may decide to modify that position before advertising for a successor to Mrs. Gumbiner.

The new principal taught grades 4-5 multi-age at Riverside for about six years. She has never served before as a school principal. The present school contract calls for a salary in the $29,000 range for principals of all elementary schools, but this may, of course, be changed in the course of contract discussions now going on.

Some 135 persons applied for the Riverside job, including about five from within the Princeton district, Dr. Houston said. Two local applicants withdrew after they had applied.

know what they're getting into."

Each of SCHOLA's founders has already had some calls — word gets around. Mostly they come from high school students who want help in math and grammar.

Mrs. Randall is accustomed to one-one teaching. For several years, she taught English as a foreign language to private pupils, including an Arab consultant and a businessman sent here from France. Incidentally, any SCHOLA client who needs help with a language will be referred to the Princeton Language Group.

Inquiries may be made to 921-7338 or 924-2457. You may already have seen SCHOLA's trademark — the pale aqua book-mark.

"Our focus is strictly on academic skills," Mrs. Randall explains. "We won't be doing psychological counselling. AND WE WON'T WRITE YOUR PAPERS!"

Graveside Ceremonies Planned Sunday As Tribute to Memory of Aaron Burr

Ceremonies will be held this Sunday noon at the grave of Burr's father, Aaron Burr Senior, and his grandfather, Aaron Burr in Princeton Cemetery, by members of the Aaron Burr Association, which is holding its annual convention at the Nassau Inn. Anyone may attend.

Burr has gone down in history under a cloud, not only for killing Alexander Hamilton in a duel, but for allegedly treasonable activities in the youthful days of the United States. He was accused of treason, tried and acquitted, and Burr supporters now believe his activities were really no different from those of many other men eager to profit from the country's western expansion. It is also believed by some that the accusation and trial were part of a personal vendetta by Thomas Jefferson.

On the death of Aaron Burr in 1836, the body was brought to Princeton from Staten Island, where he had died, and carried down Witherapoon Street in a funeral cortege, with a military band and students in full academic dress.

Father, grandfather and son now lie in a row in Princeton Cemetery. This spring, Princeton University renamed Green Engineering Annex "Burr Hall" after Aaron Burr Senior.

SAVE THE DINKY?
State Has Plan. A three-year plan, with the Dinky self-supporting at the end, will be outlined at 4 pm this Wednesday in the Mercer County Administration building in Trenton.

Under the plan, the Victoria station national chain would operate a restaurant in Princeton's dinky station, dedicating $40,000 a year or two and one-half percent of the gross, whichever is greater, to the Dinky.

At a 30 cents fare, the Dinky would bring in $77,556. Consolidation of the two Maiden Lane parking lots and the West Windsor Parking Authority property would bring in an estimated $56,516 for a total revenue of $174,074.

Freeholder Barbara Sigmund said this week that two operators, whom she is not yet free to identify, are interested in running the Dinky at the estimated $267,545 cost or below. This operating cost, minus the $174,074 revenue, leaves a short-fall of $93,371.

Of that amount, the state is said to be willing to pay $80,000, for a deficit of $13,371. Freeholder Sigmund said she will propose that Mercer County pick up $8,000 to $10,000 of that, leaving about $1,000 to $1,500 for the two Princetons and West Windsor to share.

Sought by home-owners and students, too, space-organizing shelves by K V Shelving Systems come with variously sized metal standards, brackets and pressed board shelves in a finish that can be varnished, lacquered, stained or painted. Coffee makers, hot pots, clocks, waste baskets, lamps (the Tenaora are nice $14.99 - $20.95) are homey, practical conveniences.

Clean-Up! Clean up the house with brooms, mops, sponges, buckets, detergent, polishes, waxes, glass cleaners, shell lining. An Obvious Warning. "Since the Benson building fire", says Irv Urken, "we have sold more than 500 smoke detectors and fire alarms". Kwikset's 911 fire alarm sells for $29.99, General Electric $44.95 and Norelco's popular model HBO 933 is sold for $39.99, although it lists for $50.00.

Urken's also carries a full selection of fire extinguishers. Complete your emergency preparations with a handy escape ladder that can be attached to an open window.

For top security, Mr. Urken recommends single cylinder or double cylinder deadlocks. "Super-Lock", a combination of deadlock, entrance lock and night latch by Ideal is $32.50. Kwikset and Schlage are also brands carried by the store.

Entrance locks are priced $12.90 to $32.95; cylinder deadlocks $10.20 - $24.00. "We also clean and service locks", continues Mr. Urken, "and I can alter some brand locks by changing the pins, so that all will open with one key."

To encourage fuel-conscious Princetonians, Urken's carries weather stripping and caulking materials; to save electricity - rheostats and dimmers, long-life and 136-volt bulbs. A 35-watt fluorescent bulb, called a "watt-Miser," will save $15 to $25 in electricity costs during the life of the bulb.

Serving the Princeton area for 40 years, Urken Supply Company, Inc., 27 Witherspoon Street is open daily, 8:30 to 5. Free delivery.

NEW FASHIONS...

And Renovations at Bellows. If you were living in Princeton 27 years ago, you may remember a small shop at 20 Nassau Street that sold clothes for babies and small children. This was Bellows in 1950. Many years and many expansions later, Bellows has become a sophisticated store specializing in fashionably elite apparel for women and children, with a special "Tree House" for juniors.

Today, the scene has changed once more: The "Tree House" has become a charming setting for babies and children's clothing - the larger store, a plush setting for designer collections and clothes especially chosen with the Princeton woman in mind.

Why this need for change? Because the store as it looked before, says Stuart Bellows, "was not a compatible setting for today's relaxed clothes". Also, by reorganizing our space, we are able to carry many, many more selections. The entire section between the front door and the "Tree House" is all sportswear tucked into alcoves and sections along the walls, and the spacious room to the left of the front door is all dresses.

An aura of informal elegance has been created through the use of earth tones, contrasting textures and natural woods. Brown suede-like cloth covers some walls, large textured burlap, others.

A section of floor is blonde oak parquet, the rest is covered with a tweedy carpeting in a neutral color with widely spaced brown stripes. Strip lighting spotlights the clothes.

"An Atmosphere of Ease." "We want the store to be inviting and comfortable, a place where the Princeton woman will want to be", says Mr. Bellows. "It is an atmosphere of ease where today's fashions look their best and women look their best wearing them."

To celebrate, Bellows invited customers and friends to an informal fashion show. Bill Atkinson came with a collection of his beautiful clothes. A very tall, thin, endearing man with the look of a poet, Bill Atkinson spoke about his clothes and his fashion philosophy.

"Today's women have a new attitude - they feel more freedom to let you in on their life, expressing themselves to you as to their own families. Clothes are graceful, fluid, left unbuttoned or untied to show more of the body. Clothes have a language of their own; they show how you feel about yourself."

Bill Atkinson's clothes are carefully detailed, "as clean on the inside as on the outside", as Mr. Atkinson says. French seams allow jackets to fly open and sleeves to be rolled back, collars turned up or down, without any construction showing. He chose the finest fabrics from all over the world for his clothes - wool jersey from America, Donegal tweeds, handwoven in Ireland, "boiled wool from Austria, fine, light wools from Italy."

A Touch of Fall. Skirts in jersey (moss, rust, river blue $110) or tweed (moss, navy $112) were soft and full with gathers or unpressed pleats. piece in the collection was one of the dearest, sweetest, most romantic blouses ever designed. Made in cream colored 100 percent rayon challis, it had raglan sleeves, gathered to a cuff band, a concealed button front, and a small scalloped lace collar to frame the face, $50.00.

If you hurry, you may still find one at Bellows, 210 Nassau Street. Store hours are 9:30 - 6, six days a week. —Keitha Davey Quarry Park Questioned.

To the Editor of Town Topics: As a taxpayer paying my hard-won dollars into the common treasury, I make it my business to concern myself with everybody's business. That is, I'm a busy-body wherever the public good is at stake.

One piece of unfinished business has presented itself to my attention recently. That business is the Quarry Park Affair. I call it an 'affair' because it is ongoing and, as of this time, defies my admittedly meagre powers of comprehension.

The Quarry Park Association advertises itself as a public group yet seems to consist solely of people whose backyards border on the park or who belong to a particular clique of upwardly mobile young professionals which dominates the administration of the organization. Though they may bandy about with great elan their inflated membership lists, it is no secret how the organization is run.

The group claims to be 15A Linden Lane working in the public interest, yet all we have seen for our commitment of $400,000 is a child's scrawl on a piece of paper which they claim is an architect's drawing and a proposal to rebuild the 'old quarry wall.'

Has the town been duped into buying huge backyards for a handful of sophisticated and self-interested neighbors? Can we have a truly public park on that site, or will it forever be dominated by those citizens who surround it with their houses? If we can and will have a genuinely public park there, let the Quarry to my attention recently. That Park Association demonstrate its good faith by making a commitment other than the because it is ongoing and, as of this time, defies my admittedly meagre powers of comprehension.

If not, then let the town prepare to build housing there, housing which is needed, needed so badly unlike expensive and expansive backyards, of which we have so many already. If the land was purchased to 'stop condominiums,' it was purchased for the wrong reason. If the land was purchased for a public park, then the park must be built for the public and serve the public's recreational needs. The 'wall' should be torn down, not rebuilt.

For Disadvantaged Children. An organizational meeting for a Title I Parent Council for the West-Windsor-Plainsboro Regional Schools will be held at 7:30 on Tuesday at the Dutch Neck School. All interested parents and residents are invited to attend.

Title I is a federal program designed to meet the special needs of educationally-disadvantaged students. In order to obtain a Title I grant, the local district must, in compliance with state regulations, identify needs, and submit a detailed project to the state education agency for the proposed program. The district must then adhere to state and federal guidelines regarding the administration of the project and the expenditure of funds.

almost went up in smoke in 1959 when a fire destroyed 12 new cars and burned all his parts and tools. "It was a total loss," he recalls.

Fortunately, the same year he had purchased three acres of vacant land on Route 206. He managed to survive for two more years with a smaller showroom and service department at his Witherspoon Street location, and then, in 1961, opened his present modern showroom and seven-bay service garage.

Regulations Are Harmful. After 30 years, what has been the biggest change he has noted in the industry? "The emissions and pollution problem," he replied without hesitation. That and the spate of restrictions put on dealers and repair shops by federal regulations "which, by and large in my opinion, hurts the general public."

As an example of new regulations governing used car advertising, Mr. Nini reported that his sales manager had failed to list the number of engine cylinders in a foreign car. "That particular model only comes in four cylinders. Everyone knows it. Where's the fraud in that?" The result: a $100 fine.

"There are so many rules and regulations...it puts you under a lot of pressure. I think that's for a younger man."

At age 50, though, Mr. Nini still has a number of years to pursue that second career. A career in which he is understandably proud of his progress.

A horse in the very first flat race ever held at the Jersey Meadowlands this month carried the gold and black colors of his 30-acre Narrowbrook Farm in Robinsville.

Although his horse didn't do well, he said that he was just pleased to be a part of the historic event. "It was a big thrill for me, after being kind of new in the business."

We all enjoy it and love it. The whole family is involved."

Is there anything in the future beside racing? "I know I'll be involved in something, but I don't know what yet. You know," he added, "much as I love horses, I still think my first love is automobiles."

As for the first 50 years, Tony would be the first to agree: it's been a fast track all the way.

His involvement in racing is the result of one of those chance events that can turn a life around. He remembers the exact day: July 1, 1967.

It had been a particularly trying day for him and his wife. "Let's do something different," his wife suggested, as they were driving home. They went to a racetrack for the first time.

"We both enjoyed ourselves," Tony said. "Would I like to own a racehorse?" his wife Joanne blurted out. Five months later, Tony bought his first horse.

"It's a fascinating sport," he said. "It's so exciting. There's a lot of interest in it now because of the Meadowlands."

Mr. Nini attributes much of his success to his trainer, Marty Fallon, a Kentuckian and leading trainer in the area, and to his jockey, Steve Klidzia. A dropout from Steinert High School, the 19-year old Klidzia, who never touched a horse until he was 16, is a remarkable success story in himself.

Tony Nini Leaves Car Business after 30 Years; Breeding and Racing Horses to Occupy His Time

An automotive career that began in 1946 when he was discharged by the Navy ended last week for Princeton's Tony Nini. But there are no retirement pastures ahead for Tony, who is already ten years into a second career.

He has sold his Chrysler-Plymouth dealership on Route 206 to a holding company, which will expand the showroom and service department. He had been a Chrysler dealer since 1955.

BUSINESS In Princeton

Although there will be new offices of the corporation, the name will remain the same. "The only one who's been removed is me," said Mr. Nini. He will remain as a consultant for a year.

One of the principals of the holding company is George Pinelli, who early in his career was involved in the automobile business. Mr. Nini commented that he was especially happy that the transition involved someone from Princeton. Mr. Pinelli is a past member of the Princeton Kiwanis Club and has been a Princeton resident for 18 years.

What prompted Mr. Nini, a life-long resident of Princeton, to bow out? "I've been in business 30 years now, I feel that has been a career in itself. Plus I have other interests."

Since 1967, Mr. Nini has been an owner and breeder of racehorses.

Started with Silvester. He began his career with the Packard dealer, Silvester Motor Company, on Nassau Street (Viking Furniture now occupies the building) and two years later joined Kline and Gregory, a Kaiser-Frazer dealer at 368 Nassau where the First National Bank branch now stands. He was bookkeeper and head of the service and parts departments.

In 1951, he moved on to Shelton Motors, a DeSoto-Plymouth dealer on Witherspoon Street. Four years later, he owned it.

His business, however,

IN THE WINNER'S CIRCLE: In this race at Monmouth Park, Tony Nini's horse Fast Speculator came in first, one of the reasons why Mr. Nini finds his second career in racing "so exciting." Joining Hamilton Township jockey Steve Klidzia in the winner's circle from right are the groom and assistant trainer, Mr. Nini, his daughters Linda and Patricia and Mrs. Nini.

Dear Citizens:

The Princeton Regional School System and the PTO Council are joining efforts this year to inform the public on the activities of the school system. This mutual effort is an attempt to give a more comprehensive picture of what your schools are doing. BACK TO SCHOOL NIGHTS

A good chance to see where your child spends approximately 30 hours every week. Meet your child's teachers, meet the school staff, take a building tour, see the classrooms. Don't miss it.

WEDNESDAY afternoons will again be devoted to T and E as well as training, planning, and review throughout the system. Back-to-basics will have its day as the teachers in the elementary schools attack the first of the three "R's." Reading workshops will stress Word Analysis at Riverside and Community Park while Comprehension is the main topic at Littlebrook and Johnson Park. Teachers from middle school will augment these groups. This study will continue for eight weeks under the direction of the various school principals and teachers designated by them. Although the reading review is open only to staff members for the Wednesday sessions, a meeting for parents will be organized by Norma Gumbiner, T and E coordinator (924-7836) if there is sufficient interest.

GIFTED and talented students' programs will be discussed at a State conference to be held at Monmouth College on Saturday, September 17 from 9 to 3 p.m. There is a registration fee of $2 per person. Planning is underway for a Princeton community group to aid the school effort toward gifted programming; anyone interested in this new T and E work is urged to call the office (924-7836) for further information.

CAFETERIA food: waste, subsidies, and additives are current topics of conversation. A committee for action has been proposed and people with expertise (nutritionists, not gourmets) may sign up to share their knowledge by calling Dr. Houston's office (924-7871) or the Board Secretary (924-8724).

A STUDENT library council is being organized at John Witherspoon Middle School by Eudora Wright, school librarian. Students interested in this work may volunteer. Many facets of library operation will be learned including book circulation, shelving, filing, bulletin board preparation, library mechanics with books, periodicals, and audio-visual materials. All middle school houses will be represented on the council and INVOLVEMENT is the byword. The curtailment of several staff positions here has made parent-community volunteers more valuable than ever before. A want ad would read: Offer an hour a week to your middle school No experience necessary. All newcomers cheerfully trained. Call 924-6947.

PRS PERSONNEL office reports all systems "GO" and, to date, all advertised positions have been filled.

MINIGRANTS are back in the news. PRS staff members will be drawing up proposals for submission to the state for grants up to $1000. These grants are made to encourage creativity in teaching, learning, and materials for instructional use in the schools. Mr. Jennings, assistant superintendent, will oversee our system's applications.

SCHOOL'S OPEN! A couple of new residents join to welcome the new school year. Superintendent Paul Houston (seated) and Assistant Superintendent Paul Jennings pose for photographer Ken Bowers, of the schools' media department. Superintendent Houston and PTO Council President Nancy DiMeglio are sponsoring a new "Highlights" column, which will highlight various events in Princeton's schools. The first appears at the left.

MILESTONE IS REACHED

By Princeton Savings. Now in its 60th year, Princeton Savings and Loan Association has announced it has topped the $100 million mark in asset strength.

Since, 1917, the association has helped more than 4,725 families realize their goal of home ownership. And since its founding, Princeton Savings has served over 36,000 depositors.

"We're proud to announce this landmark asset strength," President William Boozer commented. "And during this, our 60th Anniversary Year, we take time to rededicate ourselves to the principles on which we were founded. We've earned our outstanding reputation through sound management of funds, through modern banking services that haven't lost the personal touch, and through cordial and a courteous customer relationship that sets us apart. Our commitment to those principles is a continuing one. And we look forward eagerly to the increasing challenge for excellence during the next 60 years."

Headquartered in Princeton, Princeton Savings and Loan serves depositors with offices in Somerville, Plainsboro Lawrenceville and Bedminster.

DEALER NAMED

For Renault Cars. Renault USA has announced the appointment of Quakerbridge Porsche-Audi-Renault as a Renault dealer.

"We're very proud to present Le Car on our dealership floor. It has proved to be a great draw in Europe with over one and a half million sold since it was introduced in 1975," said Winfried C. Weeck, president of Quakerbridge Porsche-Audi-Renault. "We are certain Le Car will be well received here in Princeton, especially with its EPA rating of 41 miles per gallon on the highway."

Mr. Weeck started his automotive career in his native Germany with Ford of Germany and also served as an interpreter for the U.S. Allied Forces. He worked for Mercedes in Berlin before coming to the U.S. in 1952 where he was associated with Hudson Cars and GMC trucks as a salesman. He became a U.S. Citizen in 1957.

In April, the dealership moved one mile north of the Quakerbridge Mall on Route 1.

News Of The CHURCHES

NAMED COORDINATOR

For CROP Walk. The Rev. Kenneth S. Dannenhauer, pastor of Christ Congregation on Walnut Lane and Houghton Street, has been named coordinator of this year's Pastor Jesse Owens of the Walk For The Hungry. Christian Center invites everyone to this event.

Sponsored by CROP to raise funds for food and agricultural implements for poor nations, the walk will take place in Princeton on Sunday, October 16.

An organization meeting will be held Tuesday at 8 at Christ Congregation for all area schools, churches and organizations who wish to send a representative to plan this year's Walk. Last year the Princeton Walk netted nearly $20,000 from the Walk, and Mr. Dannenhauer hopes to raise the total to $25,000.

Dr. Dannenhauer's enthusiasm stems from the fact that two long time Christ Congregation members, Jerry Van Sant and his wife, are currently serving a three year stint in Indonesia distributing CROP funds. An ordained minister, former moderator, treasurer and deacon of Christ Congregation, Mr. Van Sant travels from island to island overseeing agricultural projects that have been aided by CROP funds.

"If they can give three years of their life to this work," says Mr. Dannenhauer of the Van Sant mission, "the least we can do here is raise money."

CONCERTS PLANNED

By Area Churches. A hymn sing, a recorder concert, and individual witness by a saxophonist are all planned for this week in three area churches.

A three day Ecumenical Praise Celebration will begin with a convocation Thursday at 8 in the Nassau Presbyterian Church. Sponsored jointly by Westminster Choir College and Agape-Hope Publishing Co., the event marks the publication of a new supplemental hymnbook entitled "Ecumenical Praise."

Singers, choir directors and the general public are invited to participate in the convocation which will be a sing-through of the new materials. Ray E. Robinson, president of Westminster Choir College, will preside, Daniel Beckwith will be at the organ and various composers will conduct their own works. A copy of the new hymnal will be distributed free to all who attend.

A musical group composed of different types of recorders will perform Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship service at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church on the Hightstown Road, Princeton Junction. The group is organized by Bob Boenig and is under the direction of Martha Laverty, music director at Prince of Peace.

At the Christian Center of Princeton, 223 North Harrison Street, musician Dave Boyer, will tell his personal story of religious rebirth Sunday at 10:30. Noted for his ease on the saxophone and for the Virginia quality of his voice, Mr. Boyer will repeat his musical ministry at 3 p.m. in John Witherapoon School.

in a program of intensified bible study and witnessing in their own congregation. Called "Word and Witness," the program is conducted by the Lutheran Church in America and will be implemented in L.C.A. churches throughout the United States this fall. Pastor Schott attended a two week class in Carthage College in Wisconsin in preparation.

Two Sunday morning services will resume this weekend at the Nassau Presbyterian Church, Nassau Street and Palmer Square. In place of the single 10 a.m. service there will be a service at 9:30 and another at 11.

The United Methodist Church, Nassau Street and Vandeventer Street, will resume its fall schedule this Sunday with worship at 11 instead of at 10, the summer hour.

ROUND HILL FARM

Atop a tranquil hill one will find round-the-clock enjoyment - a picturesque view of rolling hills by day and a star studded wonderland at night.

This lovely stone Colonial was partially built in 1712. An aura of warmth is generated by the country kitchen where even the dishwasher is palitely cupboarded. The burlap walls and soft wood tones of the room are enhanced by a huge stone fireplace and indirect lighting. A step-up pantry and utility area provides a work area and ample shelves. There is also a self-cleaning oven.

The smartly decorated dining room has built in cupboards and shelves and a stairway leading to the 2nd floor adds its own unique touch with a carved tulip design on the balustrade.

Perfect rooms for entertaining are created by the large living room with raised hearth fireplace, bow window and the adjacent den with fabric covered walls, bookshelves and sliding glass doors open to a stone patio - a perfect spot to enjoy the cool hilltop breezes.

A separate stairway leads up to a spacious, freshly papered master bedroom with a wall of hidden closets, attractively tiled bath, large closet for a gentleman and every lady's dream - a dressing room with a closet for "everything". Down the hall is a cozy, bright bedroom, a large newly decorated bath and another sunny bedroom.

40 minutes from Princeton in Sergeantsville.

Crystal clear pool heated to stretch the season. Rimmed with planters and a stone patio.

A sturdy, handsome barn with a kennel and dog run on the ground level. Several other out-buildings for equipment and storage.

HORSE FARMS OF AMERICA, INC.

is pleased to announce the appointment of

Associates in Mercer, So. Hunterdon & Somerset Counties

Here are just a few horse farms, each exceptional:

BLUE RIBBON HORSE FARM! 1st class professional horse farm. 23 acres and 21 box stalls. Barn for 6000 bales, indoor riding ring, 4 paddocks with water & electricity, several other substantial outbuildings including modern office-bath. Exceptional restored and modernized 1780 Colonial home with 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, an attached 5 room apartment plus a guest house, 20 x 40 pool and a pond. All facilities are first rate. Located in the heart of the Amwell Valley Hunt.

INTO EVERYONE'S LIFE AT SOME TIME THERE NESTLES THE DREAM OF RAINBOW HILL! RAINBOW HILL, as the name implies, high on a ridge nobly viewing the surrounding valley. An eighteenth century New Jersey classic, restored to such perfection, that George Washington would feel at home should he return! Dating back to 1768, and later owned by Henry Reading in 1790, it has been passed on through the generations, often abused, but now really loved by the present owners who have painstakingly toiled to restore authenticity. Successful in their task, they now reluctantly leave for new challenges. But they are offering a warm, comfortable 12-room central hall colonial with wide floor boards, chairrails, wainscotting, and all else one would expect in the Federal house of this area. A few original features are open beams, brick floor, six working fireplaces, original Adam's mantels. Gracious living is enhanced by a fieldstone patio and lovely mature grounds. An attached stone wing is used as guest suite or in-law apartment. Of course, there is acreage (6) and a modern barn with five box stalls and water and electricity for total enjoyment and convenience. Please call for particulars. This is an exceptional property.

CIRCA 1750 — 83 ACRES (HOPEWELL TOWNSHIP)

Far from the road with the Sourlands for a back drop, we have a charming country farmhouse. Featuring front and back parlors, formal dining room with fireplace, perky cypress den with walk-in fireplace, ultra modern kitchen — with room for a family to eat in! Bath. Front porch view of arriving friends and screen porch view of your private pond and swimming hole. Master bedroom and 2 other bedrooms and bath on second. Enormous bedroom with built-ins and the eaves on third. Nooks, crannies, beams and numerous outbuildings, this property boasts unlimited potential including facilities for horses. Call Henderson for your appointment today. $185,000

House on Lawrenceville Road Begun in 1697 Being Restored by Its Three New Owners

GLENCAIRN IN 1936: This photograph was one made as part of a WPA Historic American Buildings project of the stone and frame dwelling on the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road.

There is a private lives to returning Glencairn, restoration project underway as the house on the Princeton side of Carter was known, to on the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road that its former state as a hand-involves three young men not yet out of their 20s and a very old house. A stone wing of the house dates back to the early 1700's, and the main Georgian frame dwelling is pre-revolutionary.

The project is remarkable for the care and attention to detail being expended by the three, who have become enthusiastic students and practitioners of early building skills. With little cash and their own labor they are devoting several years of their

Cliff Zink, explains that he and his brother Steve and Alex Greenwood had all lived at various times in old houses, which they prefer to modern ones ("They have so much more character," he says) and having gained some post-college experience in carpentry in other old houses, they decided to look for a house of their own to which to apply their energies.

The story begins in 1697 when Johannes Op Dyke brought his family from a Dutch settlement in what is now Brooklyn to homestead a parcel of land along Shipetaukin Creek. Johannes built a simple one-and-a-half story home for his family out of the rough stones dug up in the fields. A later addition to make the wing two stories tall was built of smooth quarried stone, and the difference in the two is visible on the side of the house, as is the place where there was once a bee-hive oven.

Hunt Ownership Begins. Johannes moved to Hopewell, leaving the homestead to his son, Laurens, who died in 1748. The inventory of Laurens' will lists everything in the stone house from pewter dishes, mugs, knives and staples to two Negro slaves and the numbers of cattle, pigs and sheep.

In 1762 the property was bought by Daniel Hunt, who built the classic center hall Georgian house with four rooms downstairs and four rooms above, all perfectly balanced. The house was built, Cliff Zink says, in the tradition of many similar houses of that time in Southern New Jersey and Philadelphia and is remarkably similar to Bainbridge House on Nassau Street in its floor plan, use of corner fire places in each room and in details of door molding and panelling.

Glencairn remained in continuous ownership by Hunt descendants, including Bertrand Gulick and William Connah, until 1953 when it was bought by a Mr. and Mrs. Perot. By the time the Zink brothers and Alex Greenwood came on the scene in March of 1976, the house had undergone considerable alteration into three apartments and had been vacant for eight years.

The three new owners were given an enormous boost to their venture by their discovery that the house had been the subject of a WPA Historical American Buildings survey in the 1930's. Detailed architectural drawings and photographs existed in the Library of Congress documenting exactly how the house looked under the long Hunt ownership.

Piecing a Puzzle. Their first job was to make the house liveable. There was an enormous collection of books on latter day shelving built where 18th century fireplaces and panelling had once been,

Grace Kelly. That's Who
"We were just as surprised as anybody else — we really don't know anything about it."
That's what they're saying at McCarter these days about a story out of Harvard — wouldn't you know! — saying that Princess Grace of Monaco, the former Grace Kelly, will appear at McCarter on March 6.

At a press conference last week, McCarter's producing director Michael Kahn revealed that a "sort of movie star" might be coming to the theatre if negotiations materialized, but he waggishly declined even to hint at the actress' identity.

According to an assistant to the producer arranging Princess Grace's tour, the former actress will present an evening of poetry on the theme, "Birds, Beasts and Flowers." She gave her readings last year at the Edinburgh Festival in Scotland.

William Lockwood, McCarter's booking agent, has confirmed the Harvard announcement.

RATES FOR STUDENTS

At George St. Playhouse. The George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick is offering a $10 student subscription good for every show of the theater's fourth professional season for the price of $1.65 per show. The season opens October 7 with a production of N. Friedman; Richard Nash's romantic comedy, "The Rainmaker."

Students with valid I.D.'s may purchase a pass for $10 and may come to the box office on the night they wish to attend theater. Tickets will go on sale 10 minutes before curtain time. Students with passes will pay only $1.65 for their tickets instead of the regular $3 price.

The new student subscription has been made available to "allow students to see live theater for half the price of a movie," according to Eric Krebs, subscription campaign coordinator. The fourth season will also offer productions of "Steambath," by Bruce Jay Friedman; "Man and Superman," by G.B. Shaw; a new American play, to be selected; "Serenading Louie," by Lanford Wilson; and "Arsenic and Old Lace" by Joseph Kesselring.

AND IN PENNINGTON....

Three Plays Scheduled. Suspense, comedy and music characterize the season's offerings for The Pennington Players, and new members are invited to sign the rolls at the Players' next general meeting on Tuesday, September 27, at 8 p.m. in Heritage Hall.

"Angel Street," also known as "Gaslight," will be presented by producers Sandy and Warren Raymondson November 11-12 and 18-19. November 12 will be dinner theatre. Richard Niedt is directing. Next spring, Leonard Spiegelgass' comedy, "Majority of One" will be the Players' offering, and next summer the group has been signed to present the musical, "Camelot", at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing.

Auditions will be open to the public. Further information may be obtained from the Players by writing Box 144, Pennington, 08534, or calling 466-1010.

LAWRENCEVILLE

Star Wars. Pure movie magic. George Lucas' space fantasy about intergalactic warfare involving good guys and bad guys coupled with some dazzling camera and technical wizardry makes for rousing adventure. Not a heavy "2001" trip, Star Wars aims to entertain—and does.

It has humor, fantasy, confrontation. It has Alec Guinness, Carrie Fisher and other fine actors. But the real stars are the amazing special effects, including a breathtaking battle scene between space ships that was created by linking a calculator to a camera.

Writer-director George Lucas has made this a film "for the kid in all of us". It's good, old-fashioned excitement with the good guys and the bad guys easily recognizable. But instead of a corral or prison the battlefields are the heavens and never more stunningly and visually created.

Rocky. Sylvester Stallone of Philadelphia has written and stars in this unpretentious and involving story of a clubhouse prizefighter who gets a chance in a lifetime shot at the world heavyweight title. Along the way he finds love and self-respect.

When it began, the film was a sleeper, unheralded. No more. It has won a Golden Globe award for the best motion picture for drama and is being considered a good bet to win another handful of Oscars at the Academy Awards

PREMIERES, CLASSICS, A NEW MUSICAL!

Season Opens Oct. 6

HERSCHEL BERNARDI

in

1 The Confirmation

by HOWARD ASHMAN

also starring ZOHRA LAMPERT

directed by KENNETH FRANKEL

The McCarter Theatre is proud to introduce a new and striking voice in the American Theatre. A splendid cast captures the humor and passion of this portrait of a man whose desperate struggle for integrity puts him in conflict with his own family in its drive for the good life.

A New Musical!

The Utter Glory of Morrissey Hall

book, music and lyrics by CLARK GESNER directed by NAGLE JACKSON

Zany, totally different, and very funny, by the author of You're A Good Man Charlie Brown. Miss HECKART returns to McCarter as the headmistress of a prim, English girls' academy which is turned into a madcap roughhouse by the bizarre imaginations of its 15 uninhibited boarders.

American Premiere

Grand Magic

by EDUARDO DE FILIPPO

directed by MICHAEL KAHN

Pure theatre magic from Italy's foremost playwright called by Thornton Wilder "an incomparable dramatist." A phony illusionist's scheme to abduct a voluptuous young wife mushrooms wildly into a full-blown hallucination! Presented on the English stage for the first time, this McCarter discovery is a savory brew of chaos, calamity—and comedy!

4 The Torch-Bearers

by GEORGE KELLY

directed by MICHAEL KAHN

In the tradition of The Royal Family, this all-star revival of George Kelly's dazzling "backstage" farce deals not with the greats of Broadway but with an inept troupe of amateur thespians as anything which could conceivably—or inconceivably—go wrong, does! With MICHAEL KAHN directing a brilliant cast, the result promises to be an hilarious and major theatrical event.

5 Toys in the Attic

by LILLIAN HELLMAN

directed by PAT HINGLE

One of America's greatest playwrights, the author of the best-selling Pentimento and Scoundrel Time, reveals her tough, provocative insight into the human condition—making a dynamic point: the innocent sometimes bring injury to those they love, and when they do, it can be irreparable. The distinguished actor PAT HINGLE makes his debut as director of this modern classic.

6 Much Ado About Nothing

by WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

Shakespeare returns to McCarter with one of his most popular plays as love's irresistible force meets two self-proclaimed immovable objects—Beatrice and Benedick. Their fierce and brilliant courtship, the tense romantic intrigue of Hero's slandered innocence, and the wonderful bumbling of Dogberry and his colleagues, combine here in one of the stage's most witty and radiant comedies.

Youth Center on Witherspoon Street Now Paul Robeson Cultural Center

A re-christening, a re-dedication to drama and dance and the announcement of a new season serve to turn the spotlight this week on what used to be the Princeton Youth Center, Witherspoon and Green.

The new name will be the Paul Robeson Cultural Arts Center. Auditions will be held this Wednesday, September 14, and next Monday, Wednesday and Friday — all at 8 p.m. at the Center — for three plays to be produced as the season progresses.

"We would like to have white actors audition, too," said Len Brown, the Center's acting director (that's "acting" in the sense of temporary, although he will also be directing the plays.).

"We will not solely be a black center, and to present the works of black playwrights accurately, we will need white actors as the need arises," he added.

The three plays will be Ron Milner's "Who's Got His Own," Alice Childress' "Wine in the Wilderness" and her "Mojo." Around Christmas, the Center hopes to present a play by Don Evans, drama teacher and playwright, who founded the Center's Hansberry Arts Theatre several years ago, and was Director of the Center.

Besides actors, the Center "desperately needs" technicians, especially in lighting and sound, but also for props, make-up and all the rest.

As the Paul Robeson Cultural Arts Center, the Center hopes to attract young adults in their late 20s, 30s and 40s, according to Mr. Brown. There will also be outreach to senior citizens. In recent years, the Center has been more diverse, offering legal and business seminars, and tutoring.

Mr. Brown, acting director of the Center for the past nine months, will be leaving this fall. Resumes are now being accepted from applicants for the post.

Others on the staff will be Thomas Parker, as a program aide; Joy Bracy as secretary, and two part-time staff members; Faith Brown, who will be in charge of dance programs, and James Young, whose duties will be announced at a later date.

An Open House for the Paul Robeson Cultural Arts Center will be held this fall.

...AT MCCARTER
Series Opens next Month.
Vocal, instrumental and ensemble music will all be represented on the '77-'78 program for Music-at-McCarte, with the annual series scheduled to open on Monday, October 24, with the Soviet pianist Lazar Berman making his McCarte debut.

A specialist in the Romantic repertoire, Berman has been praised by critics for his technical virtuosity. His program will be announced in advance of his appearance.

Jessye Norman will be another performer appearing for the first time at McCarte.

The young American dramatic soprano from Augusta, Georgia, has appeared with orchestras in Europe and South America as well as on this continent. She will sing on Monday,
November 7.

After the winter holiday season, Peter Serkin will come back to McCarte for an appearance on Monday, February 6. This time, he will be without his ensemble, performing as a solo pianist.
Although he has established a reputation for playing music outside the main stream of concert compositions, he has announced that he will perform from the works of such composers as Schubert and Chopin in this present tour.

Jean-Pierre Rampal, the flutist, will come back to McCarte on Monday,
February 20, with Robert Veyron-Lacroix as his accompanist. Alexander chneider will bring his Brandenburg Ensemble to Princeton on Monday, March 13, presenting the Metropolitan Opera soprano
Benita Valente, trumpeter
Gerard Schwarz and pianist
Stephanie Brown in a Bach and Handel program.

One of the world's best-known recorder players, Frans Bruggen, will appear on the Music-at-McCarte series Monday, April 10. The Dutch musician employs the playing methods, rhythms and other musical elements used by performers in the Baroque era, a musical style now almost lost. Frequently, Mr. Bruggen will explain to his audiences exactly what he is doing and why, adding another dimension to his performance. Alan Curtis will be the harpsichord accompanist.

The Music-at-McCarte series will end Monday, May 8, with the appearance of The Guarneri Quartet. For this McCarte appearance, the Quartet will be joined by pianist Claude Frank.

Subscription tickets are now on sale at the McCarte box-office. Tickets for individual concerts will go on sale
October 1.

struments in New Jersey's only independent college of music. Students may be 4 or 84!

"We have programs for students of all ages and stages of advancement -- the beginning student, mature non-professional, junior professional, and adult professional. All courses are tailored to the individual. As was announced last spring, our name was changed from 'Preparatory Department' to 'Conservatory Division' which we think better typifies what we are: 'a school specializing in one of the arts.' In this case -- music."

The Division utilizes members of the College faculty -- both in applied music and in theory courses which are a part of study in the Division. Registration for lessons in piano, organ, voice, or instruments includes a private (or class) lesson per week coupled with music theory-fundamentals and music literature. Ensemble playing and opportunity for recital performance is also a part of study.

This season, besides a new program of group piano instruction, coordinated by Doris Allen, the Division will be beginning a brass choir and a chamber orchestra.

The Westminster Chamber Orchestra will be conducted by Ray E. Robinson, President of Westminster Choir College, who is both a choral and orchestral conductor, and a violist. Dr.

Robinson plans to concentrate on music from the Baroque and early Classic periods -- with special emphasis on the early symphonic literature of Monn, Sammartini, K.P.E. Bach, St. Georges, and others.

The Westminster Brass Choir will be under the direction of Professor Wilhelm Ehmann of Herford, Germany, the second semester. Dr. Ehmann will be a visiting professor at Westminster and will also conduct Westminster Choir at that time. Participation in both these groups is by audition only.

PS WHERE PEOPLE

MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

For 60 years, we've been years ahead.

Today we're $100 million strong.

In 1917, ten citizens laid the groundwork and breathed life into a savings institution that has grown and prospered for 60 years. It didn't just happen. Princeton Savings has come through two wars and a depression with flying colors. In six decades of service to the community we've helped over 4,725 families own their own homes and served over 36,000 savers. Through all those years, we built our reputation on three important principles:

Sound management of the money entrusted to us.

The innovation of new services to make banking as convenient and efficient as possible.

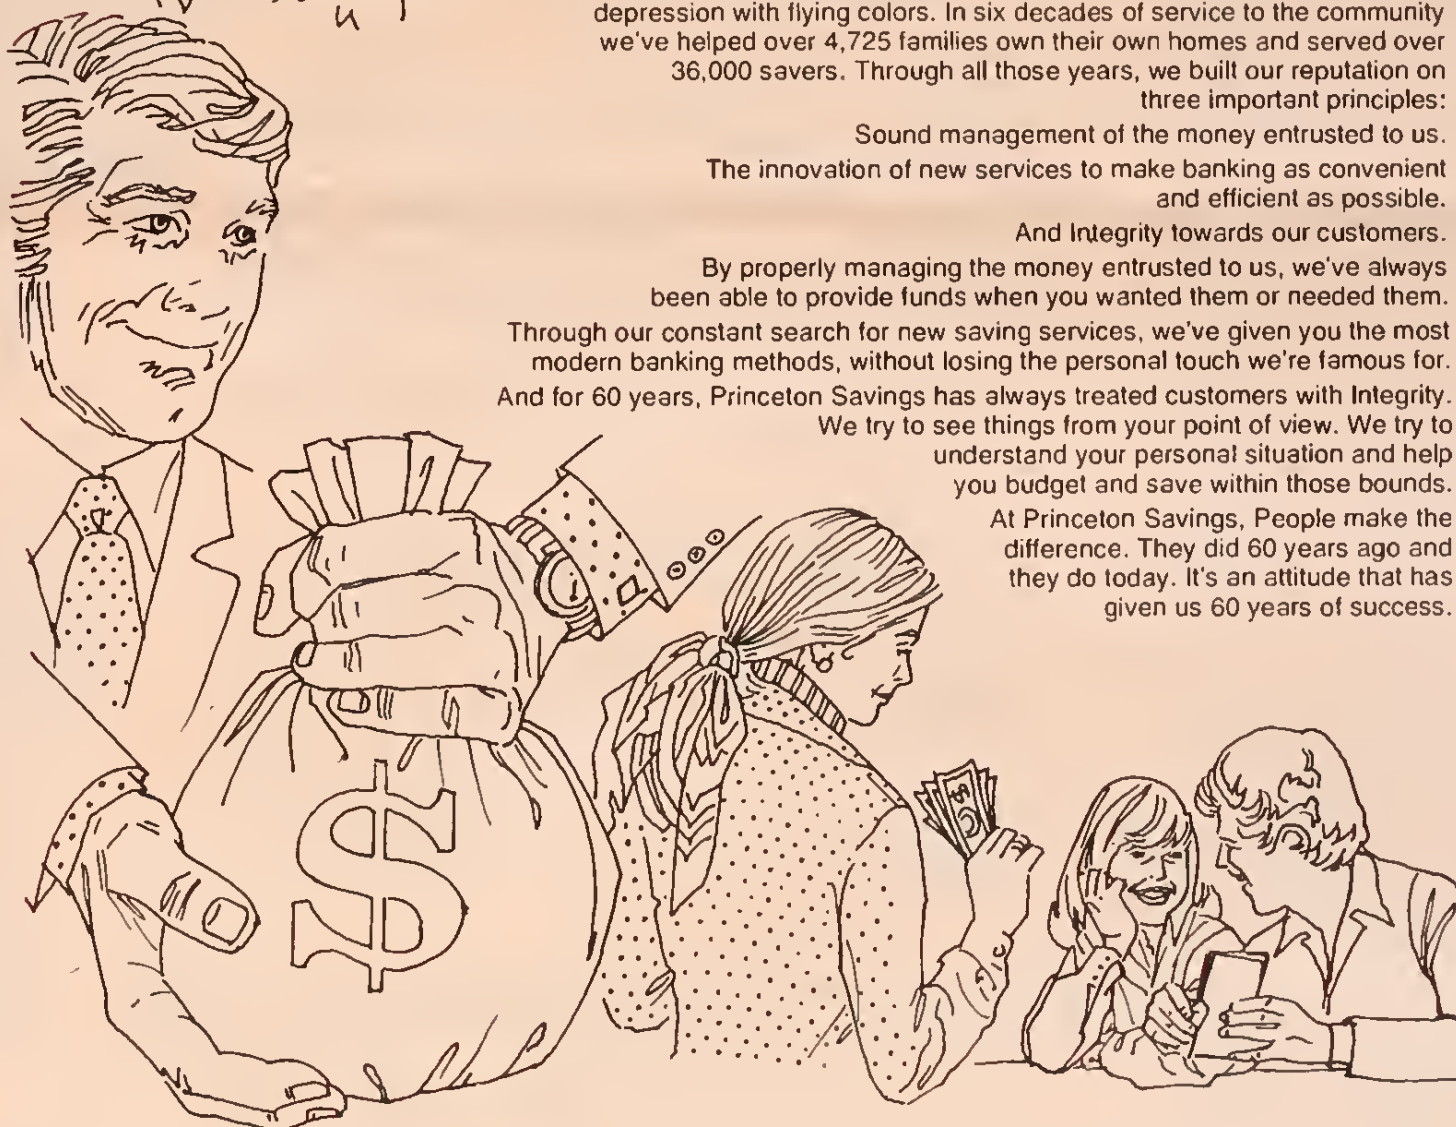

And Integrity towards our customers.

By properly managing the money entrusted to us, we've always been able to provide funds when you wanted them or needed them.

Through our constant search for new saving services, we've given you the most modern banking methods, without losing the personal touch we're famous for. And for 60 years, Princeton Savings has always treated customers with Integrity.

We try to see things from your point of view. We try to understand your personal situation and help you budget and save within those bounds.

At Princeton Savings, People make the difference. They did 60 years ago and they do today. It's an attitude that has given us 60 years of success.

Haunted by Lord Ralston

There is a legend that young Lord Ralston of the British army was killed in the house. British soldiers had encamped on the Shipetaukin Creek, which was also known as Eight Mile Run, and confiscated the house.

It is said that a Maidenhead (Lawrenceville) girl made her way to Hopewell to warn the colonists, who returned to the house and caught Lord Ralston and two men trying to escape by way of a secret stairway leading through a closet. The stairway is shown on the working drawings made by an architect in a WPA Historic American Buildings Survey.

In prying off a facing board over the big fireplace in the stone part of the house, the Zink brothers and Mr. Greenwood discovered a veritable treasure trove of colonial buttons, belt buckles, part of a clay pipe and a 1749 coin.

Lawrenceville Road House

cupboards had been shifted to other rooms, and a dork and dresry kitchen had been carved out of the former dining room. The fireplaces on the north side had been removed, doors and windows had been added and the flooring was giving way in places.

"It is a matter of trying to understand moldings and looking closely at window and door frames," says Cliff in describing how the three are attempting to piece together what their house looked like 200 years ago. "We continue to discover new things all the time."

One of their first discoveries was a partly buried big field stone slab outside the door of the old stone homestead, which bore out research that the Dutch used to have a big "stoep" or "stoop" with stone benches on either side of the door where the family gathered. The process of painting the interior trim and doors a soft Williamsburg blue threw into relief certain gouges on the inside of the front door which are the size and shape of pintels used to hold straps for the two halves of a Dutch door that must have been replaced by the single big door there now.

The three made a ten-day trip to New England to look at other private restoration projects and to talk to the owners. They have accumulated an extensive file of documents relating to the house, which is listed on the National Register, and a large library on early American architecture. Each works for a while — Steve is a free-lance TV cameraman and the other two do woodworking — and then all turn again to the house.

Authenticity Stressed. "We continually have to weigh the merits of authenticity versus practicality for modern living," says Cliff, pointing to heating ducts coming up in the center hall which will be relocated more tastefully. "The wrong thing to do would be to come in here and make everything look perfect in the modern sense, but everything we do must be in keeping with the original."

"Moreover," he adds, you can't restore a house like this with materials from the lumberyard or hardware store." He points out the horsehair in a piece of the original plaster, and says that when it comes to patching it, the three men will somehow have to recreate the rough texture by adding something similar to modern plaster mixes.

The three have come increasingly to admire early building techniques, such as the handmade hickory lath and the "splines" or pieces of wood inserted between two floor boards to keep one from riding on another. Today's interior construction uses plywood nailed onto studs; in this house one board was lapped on another and secured to joists above and below and will "last forever," Cliff thinks.

Midway through the project, they have nearly finished two downstairs rooms and have created a kitchen in the back with an island block and range and handsome cherry three men held to lift in place cabinets and a cupboard that many women would covet.

Eventually the house will have a living room, dining room, library and kitchen on the first floor, four bedrooms (three with fireplaces) and two baths on the second. The stone wing with its nine-foot fireplace will house the "family room" and has two bedrooms and a bath upstairs.

Barn Raising Held. Once a large farm of nearly 200 acres, the property now consists of a little over two acres. There is a barn which collapsed during the winter of 1976, the remnants of a windpump and a small smokehouse, also in danger of crumbling. One of the memorable experiences of this past summer was the old-fashioned barn raising the three men held to lift in place the framing with which to restore the barn.

Some 25 people, young and old, gathered for two days of heavy work with ropes and pulleys to raise the five "bents" that had been pre-assembled from the salvaged framework of a barn in Dutch Neck. At the day's end the group feasted communally. Elric Endersby, Jr., who has been a mentor for the project from the beginning, plans to devote a special issue of "The Recollector" to photographs taken during different stages of the barn raising.

Mr. Endersby says that the remarkable thing about the whole project is that it is not being done as a business proposition and that it is "process as much as product." "Many people," he explains, "would hire an architect and rejuvenate it quickly with a lot of cash. There is a real attempt here to understand building technologies of the past and to give the research the sort of attention that is sorely lacking in other projects."

The Zinks and Mr. Greenwood have received approval for a $3,500 award from the state as part of a federal historic grants funding and are awaiting a green light for the detailed plans they were required to submit. Their hope is that eventually a family will buy the house and raise their children there as the Hunts did for well over a century.

Here's a fantastic record ... Do you know there's a college football team that won its first game of the season for an incredible 65 straight years! ... Princeton won its first game of the season EVERY year from 1878 through 1942! +++

Here's an oddity ... American League pitcher Dock Ellis has set an all-time record by playing under SEVEN different big league managers in one season ... He started this season with the Yankees under Billy Martin, then was traded to Oakland where Jack McKeon was the manager ... After Ellis got there, McKeon was fired and Bobby Winkles took over ... Then Ellis was traded to Texas where they had four managers in eight days -- Frank Lucchessi, Eddie Stanky, Connie Ryan and Billy Hunter ... So Ellis has played under seven managers this year! +++

Do you know how much it costs for a one-minute commercial on TV for this season's Super Bowl game? ... CBS is going to charge an all-time record 350-thousand dollars for each one-minute commercial! +++

I bet you didn't know ... that our $10,000 major medical with a $250,000 limit could cost a man age 50, wife age 48 and two children as little as $240 per year. +++

Tigers Hoping to End Six-Game Losing Streak In First Game of Season at Hanover Saturday

Princeton University's 1977 football season, which will determine whether the five-year Casciola regime will continue or whether the fourth coach in 10 years will begin a new era here next winter, will open Saturday in Hanover, N.H. For the foreseeable future, the Tigers will be on the road for their first game; in fact, next year, it will be October 18 before they play their second contest in Palmer Stadium.

It is quite unlikely that the six-game losing streak which began against Colgate last fall will end Saturday, because it is illogical to expect that the deep-seated offensive difficulties that have been plaguing Princeton for the better part of two years will come to an end against a Dartmouth team whose strength lies in its defensive skills. It was in early November of 1975 that the Tigers last managed more than two touchdowns against anybody, and last year they averaged just 6.9 points a game while failing to record a touchdown until the 12th quarter of the season.

They do have Bobby Isom, who could become one of the top running backs in the Ivy League if the offense can keep the other guys from keying on him. To do that, senior quarterback Kirby Lockhart will have to develop a considerably better passing game than he managed last year and the line must provide improved blocking to enable other ball carriers (fullbacks Gary Larson and Ken Foote, plus Lockhart on keepers) to take the pressure off Isom.

Lockhart, Isom and Larson will start along with sophomore Vince Battaglia, who will take over at flanker (now designated slotback) for the graduated Mike Carter. Lockhart, who started seven games last year, became the only quarterback with varsity experience, when junior Steve Garza was benched for four weeks after breaking a bone in his right wrist. If anything happens to Lockhart at Hanover, or if he cannot move the team any better than last fall, Casciola will pick from the two sophomores, Steve Reynolds and Ken Barrett.

Line Has Experience. Seven lettermen will start on the offensive line, four of them regulars last year. At split end, senior Glenn Robinson has excellent speed and good pass-catching ability, while 226-lb. Frank Vuono will provide solid blocking at tight end and also serve as an occasional target for Lockhart's passing.

Dwight Coleman and Dan Friel are the tackles, both gaining considerable experience last fall as sophomores. Tim Manahan '78 will work the left guard assignment, with Greg Bauman, back after missing the last half of the 1976 season with a knee injury, at right guard.

The fifth junior in this contingent, Andy Stephens, started all nine games at center last season in his first year on the varsity. If this year's team has any edge on the Tigers of last fall, it is in the far greater experience on the offensive line.

Defensively, there may be trouble with the pass rush, which is the first weapon against a quarterback who can throw. Even a journeyman passer will show to advantage against a team that gives him too much time. Gone are the pair of fine tackles, Ted Schiller and Blackman's rebuilding effective.

Steve Fletcher, who anchored the defensive line for three years, along with another three-year letterman, end Hank Howarth. If the job cannot be done up front, ability of the opposition to score one to three touchdowns more than the ineffectual Tiger attack can muster will continue.

Three lettermen and a newcomer are scheduled to hold down the front four spots on the defensive line: seniors Tim Early and Bill Mitchell at ends, junior Pete Funke at left tackle and either Ed Shatz, a 215-lb. senior or 240-lb. Joe Lundie, a sophomore, at the other tackle. The middle guard job goes to Jerry Fitzgibbons, a two-year letterman, as are Early and Mitchell.

The linebackers will be a pair of junior lettermen, Andy Hvidston and Bob Erlich. Larry Lutz, serving as co-captain with Isom, and Jerry Peacock '78, are the starting cornerbacks, with Mark Goldstrom, a varsity reserve last fall, and senior Dave Powers the deep backs. It is the defensive secondary on which hopes rest for keeping the opposition within hailing distance this year.

Chris Howe, who handled the placekicking chores last fall as a sophomore, is the choice to continue in this assignment. His brother, Jerry Howe, has been competing with Bill Powers and Gary Larson for the job as the punter, with Powers the probable choice.

A Few Problems at Dartmouth. Graduation of quarterback Kevin Case, who completed 61 percent of his passes for better than 1,000 yards last fall, is a major replacement problem for Dartmouth coach Jake Crouthamel. He will choose between two non-lettermen,

QUICK LOOK AT DARTMOUTH

OFFENSE: Lack of experienced quarterback behind rebuilt line may slow Green attack in opening game.

DEFENSE: Eight players with starting experience should give this unit the upper hand in dealing with Tigers.

CHIEF ASSET: Home field for first game expected to blend with perennial football skill at Dartmouth in over-matching Princeton. Place-kicker Nick Lowery a big plus CHIEF PROBLEM: Extant to which running game can function capably after less than three weeks of practice.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Multiple

senior Steve Ferraris, and junior Buddy Teevens, with their near-total lack of experience likely to keep the Green from moving the ball impressively in the opener.

Missing, too, will be the fleet-footed Sam Coffey, the Green's leading running back last fall whose 114 yards in Palmer Stadium were a major factor in Dartmouth's domination of the 1976 game. Coffey broke his wrist in a Labor Day weekend scrimmage against Massachusetts and will not return until October.

The brunt of the ball carrying task will fall on Co-Captain Curt Oberg, a fine fullback who averaged 4.5 yards per carry last fall and scored half a dozen touchdowns. Pick of the receivers is split end Jimmie Solomon, an All-Ivy choice in track for his speed of 6.2 in the 60-yard dash.

If the game is close, Dartmouth's placekicker, Nick Lowery, could make the difference. He was eight for eight in field goals a year ago, including one of 51 yards against Harvard, and has not missed a point after touchdown in two seasons.

None of the present Princeton personnel was involved, but the Tigers' last trip to Hanover was an enjoyable one when they upset Dartmouth, 14 to 7, in 1974. Under the rearranged Ivy schedule, the Green then came to Princeton two years in a row, winning 21-16 and 33-7.

Some of the victors' total domination of that last contest appears likely to hold over into the new season, particularly since they retain a major portion of their defensive strength to pit against the Princeton attack that was so inept throughout the 1976 campaign. Because Ivy League football is filled with the unpredictable early in the season, and because Princeton will go into the game with the best running back in Bobby Isom, an upset is quite conceivable. The logic -- and the odds -- however, favor the home team.

Veteran PDS Football Team Shooting for Winning Season

Just about 11 months ago, the Princeton Day football team ended a mediocre 3-4 record in a state of euphoria with a 10-7 first-time ever triumph over Hun School. It made the whole season a resounding success.

It's sometimes hard to maintain momentum from one half to the next, much less 11 months, but the memories of that game may serve to spark the Panthers as they begin a new season this Friday. All but two of those who played against Hun have returned.

Gone are two standout two-way performers, Mark Zawadzky and Dave Mottley (killed in a tragic accident a month after the season ended). But, those returning have at least a year of experience, plus added size and weight in some cases.

This is especially true of 10th grader Jeff Freda, who will again fill the quarterback spot. Coach Rob Hoffman, starting his second year also, reports that Freda is much improved as a passer, and that consequently the Blue and White offense will not have to stick to the ground as much this year.

That will be good news for the workhorse of the PDS running game, senior Rob Olsson, who was involved in at least 75 percent of the plays from scrimmage last year. Olsson will be joined in the backfield by junior Chris Price and slot back Neil Munroe, a sophomore transfer student from Montgomery High.

Senior Dave Barondess will again hold down the wide receiver spot, and Tim Murdoch will start at tight end for the second year. The interior line will include Pat de Maynadier at center, seniors Don Gips and Tim Dill at guards, and seniors Brad Clippinger and Doug Fittin at tackle. The latter is filling in for junior Gordon Harrower, who is out for at least two weeks with a bruised shoulder.

Small Squad. As usual, PDS has a small (25-man) squad, and most players will go both ways. Hoffman reports a good turnout for the junior team this fall, so the squad size could increase in the next couple of years.

Gips, Dill, Clippinger and de Maynadier will all see action on the defensive line as will Andy Jensen, at tackle and Burr Stoner at Middle Guard. Backing them up will be Olsson and Murdoch at linebacker, Munroe and sophomore Bill Haynes at cornerback and Barondess at safety.

Barondess and Price both have place kicking ability, which will be a help in tight games. Barondess' field goal won the Hun game for the Panthers last year.

In the off season, the Panthers formed a league with five other schools: Wardlaw, Montclair, Dwight-Englewood, Morristown and Pennington. Each team will play every other, with a league championship awarded to the one with the most victories. It lacks only a name to make it official. Suggestions should be sent to Alan Taback at PDS.

In addition to the five league contests, PDS will play Chestnut Hill, Hun and Peddie. Chestnut Hill will be here Friday at 3:30, and the Panthers hope to do much better than the 46-0 bombing they got at Chestnut Hill last year.

The visitors have one runner with the quickness of an O.J. Simpson, and Hoffman thinks he has a defense that will be able to contain him.

SAME OLD REFRAIN
Hun Squad Thin. "I'd like to think we can improve," said Hun School football coach Dave Leete, who last year watched his team fall to a 1-7 record.

"But every year lately we've been awfully thin; this year we're awfully, awfully thin, number-wise."

Considering numbers alone, it is grim for the Red and Black. Twenty-seven men out; an average of 22-23 players the first few days of practice. "I hope we'll get more when school starts," said Leete, but at the most he can expect only a few more.

"We have a respectable first group," continued Leete, who has been head coach at Hun since 1969. "If we don't have any injuries. But it will be difficult getting a total second group together."

The key word, Leete acknowledged, is injury. He can't afford any, especially to a key player. Last year, Hun lost its best running back, Dave Dudek, early in the season. The result: "we had no one to carry the ball, the season went down the drain," said Leete.

With Dudek out and the passing suspect, Hun, which competes in the Independent School League, A Division, was able to defeat only Peddie.

Cronin Team Captain. This fall, Leete welcomes back 10 veterans, including eight seniors, not all of whom earned letters. The list is headed by Bob Cronin of Princeton, a 190-lb. tackle and captain of the 1977 squad who is starting his third year on the varsity. "He's a good one, he'll be the mainstay of our line," said Leete.

Other senior linemen back are center Sal Ammirata (5-9, 190); Tom West, a 6-4, 200-lb. end; and A.J. Knepp, a guard.

Brian Lee returns at quarterback. Halfbacks are Craig Darvin and Tony Adams, while Pete Black will return to his linebacker position. Two juniors with experience are Dwight Hallett and Scott Zahn, both guards.

Two newcomers expected to aid in Hun's comeback bid are Matt Roach and E.T. Roach, two juniors from Montreal, where their father is coach of the professional Montreal Alouettes football team.

The younger — by a year — Roach, Matt will play fullback on offense and linebacker on defense. E.T. will battle Lee for the starting quarterback role. Leete described him as a good passer. Both are 5-10, 170.

Others with some experience on the squad include senior Doug Heurtematte, a six-foot end; senior Jay Scherbik, a 6-0, 240-lb. tackle and the biggest player on the squad; junior Mark DeLorenzo, 6-3, 190, and three sophomores, all residents of Princeton.

The latter are Jim Dean, a center; Rick Steiner, a 205-lb. tackle; and Dave Wheaton, a 160-lb. halfback, who "has a good shot at playing."

Schedule the Same. The eight-game schedule is the same as last year's. It includes crosstown rivals Princeton High School and Princeton Day School, which defeated Hun for the first time last year. Also Delbarton, which won the league last year and is solid again this fall. "They're all strong teams," said Leete. His team will open the season next Saturday, the 24th, at Newark Academy.

Leete will get a chance to see his team in action in scrimmages against West Windsor, St. Anthony (this Wednesday) and in a tri-scrimmage Saturday involving Notre Dame High School and Montclair-Kimberly on Saturday.

His assistant coaches are Bill McQuade, Bill Stout and Jim MacLeon.

It wasn't too many years ago when Hun, led by Princeton's Jack Petrone, was steamrolling everyone in sight and enjoying undefeated seasons. Until Hun solves its manpower problems, however, those glory years are behind it.

Said Leete, "If this team was a little bit bigger and had a little more depth, I could be a little bit more optimistic. We'll just have to wait and see."

PDS GETTING READY

To Defend Soccer Title. The Princeton Day soccer team will find itself running awfully hard just to stay in the same place this year, but it seems to have the same problem every season.

One of the top teams in the state's B division, the Panthers have reached the finals of the league championship the past six years, winning three times, including last season. It's a hard act to maintain, but superlative seasons for the Blue and White are becoming a way of life.

Coach Tom DeVito has a strong nucleus of players returning from last year's squad, which compiled a 14-2-2 mark on the way to the B division crown. Foremost of these is the school's all-time scorer in the sport, Mike Walters, returning for his final year.

Walters' strong left foot won many a game for the Blue and White last season, as he piled up 25 goals and six assists. With him at one of the striker positions, PDS is assured of one of the most potent offenses of any team in the area.

Matched with Walters in the other striker position will be senior Jay Nusblatt, a very steady performer. "If our defense can get the ball up to these guys, we're definitely going to score," DeVito commented.

Sharing tri-captain honors with Walters are goalie Johnny Rodgers and sweeperback Andy Sandford. They will anchor the Panthers' defense. Two other veterans, senior Chris Bundy and junior Doug Fine, along with junior Dave McCord will start at the other fullback positions.

Strong Midfield. DeVito is very pleased with his halfback corps. Evan Press is back at one spot, Jono Rush a sophomore with excellent soccer skills, will fill another, Ralph Ross, a junior, the third and senior Jeff Patterson, the final spot.

The length of the high school game has been extended for the second consecutive year. Teams will now play 20-minute quarters, up from 18 last year and 15 the year before. They may well be lengthened again next year to be on a par with colleges which play 45-minute halves.

What this means for DeVito as well as every other coach is the need for a strong bench. Substitution will be more frequent this year in the effort to keep fresh players in the games. DeVito is pleased with what he has available.

Jeff George, a big, strong junior, will be used where needed, as will Larry Pierson, a sophomore, senior Tommy Bates at striker, Steve Pagano at halfback, Bill Ross, and reserve goalies Tony Dell and Steve Rowlands. A Princeton High transfer student, junior Joe Lapsley, will also be a help.

DeVito has been running two-a-day drills to get his team ready for the season's opener Friday against Princeton High, away. Two scrimmages were scheduled this week, including one against Trenton High on Wednesday.

The Princeton High game should be a good one. Last year the teams played to a 0-0 deadlock. The Panthers will open at home next Wednesday against Morristown-Beard at 3:45.

Speed and Desire Are Being Counted on at PHS To Make up for Lack of Size and Depth in Line

(This is the second of three articles on prospects of the 1977 PHS football team.)

If the Princeton High School football line is to succeed this season, it will have to do so on speed, strength and determination. There are no behemoths on the Little Tiger squad.

"It looks good on paper, 17 returning lettermen and all that, but we're just not large," said PHS coach Jim Beachell. "We're physically small but not physically weak," interjected his top assistant, Frank Francisco. And will less than 60 members, the squad isn't large numerically, either.

"There's a question at one of the guards and one of the tackles. Looking at it as a whole," commented Beachell, "it could be a problem for us."

"I don't know who will back up who. You can't go a whole season with one guy—you're going to get hurt. That was our whole philosophy last year: offensive and defensive platoons. That's why we have so many lettermen, why we have so much experience. This year if we decide to go both ways, we'll have to have a lot of depth."

For now, Beachell isn't sure he has the numbers.

No Problem at Center. If Beachell has questions about the line, there is one position where he has all the answers.

Cory Easter returns at center and there was no one better in the Conference last year. He was the only unanimous All-Conference selection, Beachell pointed out, and he played every minute of offense. Smart, durable, with a lot of football

'FEISTY DEVIL': Ever since he won a starting position at guard as a 135-lb. sophomore, Brian Cleveland has never let anyone take his job away. Now, two years later and only 15 pounds heavier, Cleveland will be starting his third season for the Little Tigers. "A feisty devil" says his coach, Jim Beachell.

savvy, the 5-9½, 185-lb. Easter, says Beachell, "allows us to do a lot in the line that we never could before."

When Easter was teamed with last year's starting guards, Brian Cleveland, who also returns, and Jim O'Grady, last year's co-captain, both of whom were also smart, intelligent players, "it was," observed Francisco, "like having your own brain trust on the field."

Backup to Easter is an "extremely improved" junior, Cal Harris, 5-11, 160, and sophomore Eric Vieland. The word on Vieland: good size and a lot of potential.

Guards: A sure starter is Brian Cleveland, who has played the position for the past two years, winning All-Conference honorable mention last fall. Described by Beachell as a "feisty devil," Cleveland started playing as a sophomore when he weighed 135.

"He just wanted to play; he wasn't willing to let anyone get by him," said Beachell, who is obviously very high on Cleveland's ability. More accolades from the coach included, "A student—that's why he can play there, smart, very coachable, tough."

With Easter and Cleveland back, two-thirds of the brain trust is intact.

Peter Gorman, another senior guard, played primarily on special teams. At 165, 5-11, he is quick and has great lateral movement but, according to Beachell, has never really tried to reach his potential. "He could have been playing with the varsity a long time ago."

Junior candidates are Jim Harris, Paul Bessire and Phil Clark. Harris has no offensive experience but has a lot of potential.

"He should see action somewhere," predicted Beachell. A letterman, Bessire has the most experience on offense and like Harris has a lot of potential. It was his misfortune to have to play behind O'Grady last year, although he did play an entire game when O'Grady got hurt. Clark was injured in a sandlot football game and missed the entire season.

Three untested sophomores are David Dyson, a member of the freshman team, as big as Cleveland; Jordon Murdock, 165 pounds, a hard worker, says Beachell, and Ian Broadwater.

Broadwater is big (5-9, (5-9, 190) and has tremendous potential. "He could start; it all depends on Ian," commented Beachell.

Tackles: Right now it's Times Square. Seventeen candidates are listed on the charts. Seniors are Karim El-Meligi, Andre Intartaglia, John Morris, Chris Morris, Paul Hoad and Dean Boyer.

El-Meligi, a starting end last year, Intartaglia, and the two Morris are all strong. Francisco stat stated. "Arm-wise, they are probably the strongest tackles we've ever had." All can bench press over 250 pounds.

Hoad is a former soccer player out for football for the

THE BEST: Cory Easter, the only unanimous selection on the Hopewell Valley All-Conference team, will return as center on the PHS line. The 5-9½, 185-lb. senior is a two-year letterman.

A Serious 13.1 Mile Half-Marathon Is Planned Here As Well as a 3-Mile "Run-for-Fun" Race

Those joggers running along Princeton's streets and highways at all hours like so many deer will get their chance a week from Sunday.

They and an estimated 1,000 runners from New Jersey and surrounding states are expected to compete in the first Princeton Half Marathon and Run-for-Fun. The event is being sponsored by the First National Bank of Princeton for the benefit of the YM-YWCA.

Starting time is 1 on Sunday, September 25. Both races will start on Hodge Road, across from the Y, and finish at Palmer Square, where an awards ceremony will be held for the top finishers.

Director for the event is Peter Clark, assisted by Eamon Downey. Other committee members include Richard Geisel, Hoyt Ammidon, Charles Hatfield, Constance Fleming, Lee Tetzel, Don Larson, Jerry Mould, Steve Stovall, Joe Opperman, Bill Lauder, Mike McGrath, Charles Clark and Lisa Leshner.

How to Enter. Applications can be obtained at the First National Bank and all its branches, the YMCA, Princeton University Store, Mine Mountain Sports on Nassau Street, Center Sports in the Princeton Shopping Center and The Athletics Foot, Quakerbridge Mall.

There is a $3 fee for entries received by September 20; $4 for those after September 20. Checks (payable to The Princeton Half - Marathon) and entry blank should be mailed to Rich Geisel, 36 Armour Road, Princeton.

After registering at the YMCA where they will receive their number, T-shirt and course map, contestants should report to the start of the race on Hodge road by 12:30.

The 13.1 mile Half - Marathon, certified and sanctioned by the NJAAU, will start first; the three mile Run - for - Fun a few minutes later. There will be prizes donated by Princeton merchants to the top finishers. First prize is a handmade sweater from Landau's.

There will be trophies for men and women in the following divisions: youth (14 and under); high school (15-18); open (19-29); sub - masters (30-39), masters (40-49) and veterans (50 and up).

Marathon runners will turn right off Hodge onto Elm and the Great Road to Bedens Brook Road, left on Bedens to Province Line, down Province Line to Cherry Valley, back to The Great Road, down The Great Road and Elm to Armour, left on Armour to Stockton, down Stockton and Nassau to Palmer Square. The course will be well - marked. There will be two water stops.

The three-mile course will take runners down Hodge to a right on Elm to Westerly, making a loop around, Wilson, Westcott and Cleveland Lane back to Elm and then follow the same ending as the half - marathon. Additional information is available from Mr. Clark at 924-7032.

first time. But at 6-1, 190, he is one of the bigger players on the team. Boyer is another carrying the "good potential" label but he has never had a complete season.

Juniors are Bruce Johnson, Dan Cowan, Jeff Shipman, Jordan Paul, Gabe Sasso, Elio Pirone and Greg Davidson. Although he has had no varsity experience, Paul appears to be the best candidate among the juniors. He is 6-2, 190 pounds. "He'll see action definitely, some place," predicted Beachell.

Sophomores are Ken Alexander, Chris Gabrielson, Luciano Procaccini and John Laity. All are untested, all about a year away.

"There ought to be somebody in there who can do the job," observed Beachell,

"even if we have to go through the entire list. We won't be big but we'll be quick at tackle."

Tight End. Senior Chris Cahill, starting tight end for the Little Tigers last year, is back to claim the position again. An outstanding athlete, he is 6-0, 185.

Another senior and letterman who will push Cahill hard is Mike King, 5-9, 157, who saw limited offensive play last year. Quick (4.9 in the 40) with excellent hands, he is a good receiver.

Still another senior, Lance Phox has the best size for the position at 6-1, 190, and has good speed. "If he catches fire, it will be a three-way race," said Beachell.

The battle for split end shapes up as a dogfight between senior Adam Bierman, juniors Kiernan Esposito, Tom Riemann, Tom Lion, and sophomore Michael Martin.

Esposito has as good a shot as any but it will all boil down, explained Beachell, "to whoever can block the best as well as catch the ball."

Three other candidates for end are sophomores Ken Green and Chris Green and junior Anthony Pirone who is out for the first time.

Next week: The Outlook.

SEASON OPENER FRIDAY

For PDS Girls Soccer. Successful soccer teams are not confined to the boys at Princeton Day. The girls, directed by the school's athletic director Alan Taback, finished with a fine 10-4-1 mark last year.

With the loss of 10 seniors, Taback will have a hard time matching last season's success, but he is optimistic about his chances. The basic athletic ability is very good, Taback reports, which will make up somewhat for the limited experience of the newer players.

"We could have a very good season if things go right at the beginning," Taback said. Once these girls gain the experience and the confidence that goes with it, we should do very well."

The return of Catherine Ferrante, the team's leading scorer last year with 12 goals, will assure the Panthers of a strong attack. Ferrante has been moved in from wing to center forward. On the line with her will be senior Maggie Gordon. Ferrante and Gordon will captain the team this year.

Other returning players include Carolyn Hartshorne in the goal, Martha Hicks at right fullback, Debbie Ford at halfback and Virginia Ferrante at a forward spot. Meg Bailey a reserve fullback

If you're considering a Mercedes 280E, drive a Peugeot 604.

Like the Mercedes 280 E, the Peugeot 604 SL has four-wheel independent suspension, a responsive six-cylinder engine (ours is a V-6), power steering (ours is rack and pinion), a unitized body held together with thousands of welds, power windows, fully reclining front bucket seats, tinted glass, and meticulous attention to detail.

The Peugeot 604 has also been engineered for a superior level of comfort. With oversized shock absorbers, large coil springs, a floating differential, and seats that are actually tuned to the suspension system.

But comfort isn't the only thing that sets the 604 apart from the Mercedes. There's also the price. Which starts at about $11,000.* And which may be its most comforting feature of all.
